Dedication

To the memory of our beloved professor and friend, to the memory of the man who lived this life in kindly, philosophical fashion, whose earnest good-will and helpful criticism have been of great advantage to us, whose life was so cheerful an example to us, whose kindliness we are beginning now to appreciate, to the memory of him who recently departed this life, we dedicate this MIRROR.

O God, beneath Thy guiding hand,
Our exiled fathers crossed the sea,
And when they trod the wintry strand,
With prayer and psalm they worshiped Thee.

Thou heardst, well pleased, the song, the prayer—
Thy blessing came; and still its power
Shall onward through all ages bear
The memory of that holy hour.

Laws, freedom, truth and faith in God
Came with those exiles o'er the waves;
And where their pilgrim feet have trod,
The God they trusted guards their graves.

And here Thy name, O God of Love,
Their children's children shall adore,
Till these eternal hills remove
And spring adorns the earth no more.

Al came to Bates from far-away Barbados, bringing with him his vicious tennis cut, his raucous laugh, his kingly bearing, and his bum tenor, or is it baritone, voice. He says woman is a mystery, but we notice Al does his best to solve her. With his soon-to-be-purchased demon motorcycle, his ivory-inlaid mandolin, his go-get-em spirit, his earnestness, Al will go far in his chosen field, be it religion or business.

Andy is always ready to mix up some kind of a concoction with a guaranteed pre-war flavor or to launch some get-rich-quick scheme. If you think him a crab, just remember that Andy simply has to hand out advice whenever he can, and says it's easier to crab than to construct.

Born July 4, 1895, Lewiston, Maine; Brunswick High; Enkuklios, 1, 2, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

We are just beginning to suspect Evelyn of being romantic—oh, yes, ROMANTIC in capitals. According to her, romance runs somewhat to a thrilled contemplation of manly qualities and characteristics. From a quiet, unassuming little lady she has become a talkative, somewhat sentimental person of flapper tendencies. Reason? Emma. It is, however, merely a passing fancy and will wear away, leaving our sensible, understanding, very demure and optimistic Evelyn.

"Is-a-bel-le, can you get that problem?"

Mary doesn't make much noise—proctors don't anyway, I guess—but just look at her record! She's the kind of girl we all look at—and sigh—we could never be like that. Latin Comp done a week ahead of time; yes, that has an appeal for us, but somehow— And you know she's got dimples—dimples—ever notice? Well, Mary, we've got to hand it to you.

ARTHUR IRVING BATES, B.S.

Born Lewiston, Me., June 22, 1897; Jordan High, 1916; Cercle Francais, 2; Politics Club, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Assistant Chemistry, 4.

Since Arthur has been one of Mr. Bates' commuters via shank's mare and the Figure 8 throughout his college career, we have not become quite so well acquainted with him as we might have had he lived with us on the campus. The habitat of this young man seems to be Hedge Laboratory. His life is not all burettes, beakers, and bunsen burners, however, for it is known that he makes intermittent sojourns to that part of the campus where dwell the fair ladies of the institution, be it fair weather or otherwise. Anyway, he is one of Mr. Higgins' worthy assistants and a more efficient one we could not ask for.

MARIAN WINNIFRED BATES, A.B.

Born May 6, 1901, Hingham, Mass.; Hingham High; U. A. C. C., 2, 3; Ramsdell Scientific, 3, 4; Petit Salon, 3; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios, 1, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 2, 3, 4; Class Vice-President, 3; Vice-President Petit Salon, 3; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 2, 3, 4; "B"; Volley Ball, 4, Second Team, 3; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Soccer, 3; Honor Student.

Here she comes—our slender, willowy Marian, the girl who can do almost anything, who is a basketball shark, a tennis fiend, and a lyric soprano—yes indeed, a LYRIC soprano with emphasis on the soprano. She is demure on the outside, but oh, what hidden depths! And by the way, Marian, old dear, how many times have you refused the sparkling diamond? We know they are many and to the point, as the fellar says. Here's how, and may you never forget old Twenty-One and her true-blue sports.

CARL WARREN BELMORE, A.B.

Born May 7, 1899, Wakefield, Mass.; Local High School; Prize Speaker, 1; President of Class, 2; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; Vice-President, 3; President, 4; Commons Committee, 2, 3, 4, chairman, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4; Cercle Francais, 2, 3; Ivy Day Speaker, 3; Class Track, Varsity Hockey, 4; Mirror Board, 4; Athletic Editor of the Student; Greek Play; Class Day Speaker.

We do not flatter Carl when we say that he is prince of good fellows, for he is that—and more. He has been successful in all of his undertakings. Romance, too, has claimed a large share of his attention and his successes in this field have been as pronounced as his triumphs in other ventures. Successful student, good sport, a staunch friend, ever a gentleman—the type which '21 is proud to claim as its own.

ROMEO ARMAND BERNARD

"A man that blushes is not quite a brute."

Born Nov. 3, 1897, Auburn, Me.; Edward Little High School; Varsity Hockey, 1, 2, 3.

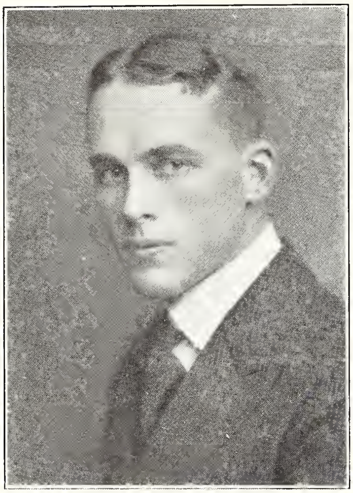
Bernard is one of our off-campus students. He is such a quiet boy that aside from the fact that he attends classes we don't know much about him. He is a speedy boy (on skates) as he has demonstrated more than once on the hockey team. His curly hair and pink cheeks make him a favorite among the ladies, but he doesn't waste his talents on the campus. He is quiet and undemonstrative, but his twinkling eye shows an appreciation for the humor of life. The quiet kind is the one which brings surprises, and we may yet live to learn that Bernard of '21 is one of its famous men.

FRANK HENRY BLACKINGTON, JR., A.B.

"Dusty"

Born Aug. 14, 1893, Somerville, Me.; Chester High School, Chester Depot, Vt.; entered Bates in Class of 1918; Cercle Francais; Macfarlane Club, 4; Ivy Day Speaker, 3; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Chairman of Senior Entertainment Committee; French Play, 3; Senior Program Committee; Class Day Speaker.

The gold-plated arm elastics are unanimously awarded to Dusty for his inimitable dexterity in wielding his mother tongue (as well as that of several aunts and uncles). In short, where Dusty is, there's sure to be a crowd, (or a woman—but a new one) and every indication points to him as the "only and original" gloom dispeller. Some men's hearts are reached through their stomachs, but Dusty gets in through their ears, and the permanence of the impression is registered by an everlasting spirit of camaraderie in the hearts of all.



WILLARD FRANCIS BOND, B.S.

Born December 15, 1897, Braintree, Mass.; Thayer Academy; Athletic Council, 4; Vice-President Outing Club, 4; Class Track, 1, 2; Y. M. C. A.; Greek Play.

"Bondie" he is called, but believe me there are no strings fastened to this boy's coat tail. If ye believe it not, who cares? His is the life of the free. So variable are Willard's emotions, passions, and ambitions that it is really most difficult to even attempt a suggestion as to the dominant motives behind his actions. He seeks to enjoy everything in life from the realm of the after-the-party-clean-up-gang in Rand Hall to the lures of Terpsichore. "Bondie" is a good sport and one who is always ready to embark upon any kind of expedition. To go further into the innermost recesses of this man's being would require more space than is allotted for these impressions. Let it suffice to say he is one of the most enterprising chaps of '21, sure to succeed in the big things in life of which he is capable.

ADA CLARE BONNEY, A.B.

Born Jan. 16, 1898, Canton, Maine; Leavitt Institute; Y. W. C. A.; Seniority; President, Entre Nous; Petit Salon, 3, 4; Hockey, 3; Volley-ball, 3; Enkuklios.

Here comes Ada, small but oh, how businesslike! Just you notice the way she marches along straight for one particular place, never turning aside for little things, nor allowing herself to be distracted by the more frivolous Batesites. Not that she is a grind or a plugger—Heavens, no! Why, she is one of the happiest kids on the campus, and has a smile ready at any time—day or night. She is efficient, that's all.

RUTH EVELYN BOWIE, A.B.

Lisbon Falls, Maine; Jordan High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Petit Salon; Entre Nous; Baseball, 1.

Here's an attractive crab who never supported a college activity in her life. The college would feel flattered to know that you considered its affairs "those old things"—but it isn't so much to be wondered at, if your comparisons are drawn from those delightful house parties at Tacoma. You can give a good time if you have the "I don'twanter" and lately you have been docile enough to be in leading strings. They do say there is just one cure for the parlor bolshevist—and that's the kitchen. Going to try it?

VYVYAN CECILIA BOWMAN, A.B.

Born May 1, 1898, Los Angeles, Cal.; Jordan High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Petit Salon; Entre Nous.

Viv has absorbed some of the college quiet since she came—cloistered halls and balls—but she still has a temper, and she is going to scalp everybody when she is in it. But it is such a funny little temper that you can't do anything but stand back and laugh. Viv doesn't mind a bit of a roughhouse and she is great with the shillalah. All the kids on the street know her. It wouldn't be surprising to see her playing with them—you do now, don't you Viv? You're a good little scout always, and there's a lot of good sense in that head of yours.

RUTH ALFREDA BRADLEY, A.B.

"Brad"

Born Jan. 10, 1899, Patten, Maine; Island Falls High; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Enkuklios; Phil-Hellenic, 2, 3, 4; Massachusetts Club; Secretary I. C. S. A., 4; Senior Adviser Cheney House, 4; Volley-ball, 1, 3, 4; Baseball 2nd, 2; Hockey, 3, 4; Captain Volley-ball, 3; Soccer, 3; Basketball 2nd, 4; Numerals; Honor Student.

Brad's the sort that has a firm idea of right and wrong—right is right and all that isn't right is wrong. No half-way business about Rufus. What a serious person you are, Brad, except when you giggle. Twenty-One appreciates that giggle and also that earnestness of yours. What would we do without it in hockey, as you crouch there in that old brown skirt at the goal ready to kill the ball.—You win, Brad, every time.

LAURA ELEANOR BREWSTER, A.B.

"Sammie"

Born Aug. 10, 1898, Lisbon Falls, Maine; Lisbon Falls High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Alethea; Athletic Board, 3; Portland Club; Baseball, 1, 2; Manager and Captain, 2; Hockey 2nd, 2, 4; 2nd Volley-ball, 3, 4; Track, 3.

"Sammie—Sammie Brewster! Will you rub my back before you go to bed?" "Say, Sammie—fill my hot-water bottle. My feet are cold!" Yep, this is Sammie, Rand Hall physician, regular old scout, best ever. She'll do anything she can and chuckle while she's doing it—and for recreation, she sings. You don't believe it? Just come into Kate's room some night when she's putting Kate to bed—sneak in cautiously and hear her chant the ballad of "My Old Horse, Napoleon." For an all-around, good-natured, optimistic kid—see Sammie.

FRANK LEWIS BRIDGES, B.S.

Born June 26, 1898, Mechanic Falls, Me.; Stratford Collegiate Institute, Stratford, Ontario, and Edward Little High School, Auburn, Maine; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; MIRROR Board.

In every graduating class there is always sure to be several characters whose versatility manifests itself in many ways outside the class rooms. Frank, or Professor Pathé as he is often called, is this sort of a fellow. We know him as a Chem. shark, as a man who dabbles in art and literature, and as a super-graceful shimmie artist. These combined qualities resulted in his winning a commission as a Second Lieutenant who was prevented from going across only by the end of the war. Some call him a crab, but he is that before breakfast only, and as the day progresses, we find in him a most agreeable companion.

RICHARD STEELE BUKER, A.B.

Born August 27, 1899, Foster, R. I.; Mount Hermon; Captain of Track, 3, 4; Letter Man in Track, 2, 3, 4; Cross Country, 3, 4; Assistant Public Speaking, 4.

This veritable greyhound of the cinders cares naught for the laws governing speed and endurance. Many an opponent has been forced to give him the lead and be content to watch his heels as he crosses the line to victory. Once upon a time Richard's so perfect resemblance to his twin brother Ray gave rise to some very amusing situations, but we trust that the young lady in question has finally succeeded in distinguishing one from the other. If Dick is as successful in the medical profession as he has been on the cinders, we feel sure that he will come out on top.

WARREN CAMERON CAMPBELL, A.B.

Born Sept. 8, 1900, Berlin, N. H.; Berlin High School; South Portland High School; Glee and Mandolin Clubs, 1, 2, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Greek Play.

"Cam" was once told by a girl that he had brains, and you would never question the truth of this statement, if you really knew him. Musician, artist, mechanic, athlete, preacher, and LOVER—he is all these and more—a Procrastinator, or better, a Sport. Cam's greatest weakness is a seven-forty-a-m-snooze while Greek is in session. Can you blame him? His greatest need is an alarm clock, or a "Maid." Chief failing—his age. His greatest ambition is to convince "Prexy" that "it was necessary." Here's luck to you—none of us could.

EDWARD AVERILL CANTER, A.B.

"Eddie"

Born April 13, 1899, South Gardiner, Maine; Gardiner High School; Varsity Football, 1, 2, 3, 4; "B," 3, 4; All-Maine End, 1920; Class Baseball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Class Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club and Cercle Francais.

As his record implies, Eddie is one of our athletes possessing ability in almost all departments of sport, but starring in football. During his Junior year, Eddie caught the dancing craze, and is now an enthusiastic promoter of dancing parties. When it comes to humor, he is in a class by himself, for he has a supply of jokes which he brought with him his Freshman year. (See quotation above.) When this youth leaves Bates, a real live wire is gone and the place where he lands will be lucky.

CRETE MURIEL CARLL, A.B.

Born Sept. 9, 1900, Old Orchard, Maine; Alfred High School; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Forum; Macfarlane; Alethea; Seniority; Assistant in Geology, 4; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 2, 3, 4; Secretary of Enkuklios, 2; Class Executive Committee, 1, 3; Leader of Glee Club, 4; Student Board, 4; Student Government Board, 4; Class Program Committee, 4; Hockey 1st, 1, 2, 3; 2nd, 4; Basketball 2nd, 1, 2, 3; Baseball 1st, 3; Track, 1, 2; Phi Beta Kappa; Greek Play.

Crete can do and Crete is willing to do anything that's needing to be done, whether it's helping '21 win a relay race, or managing a difficult piece of committee work.

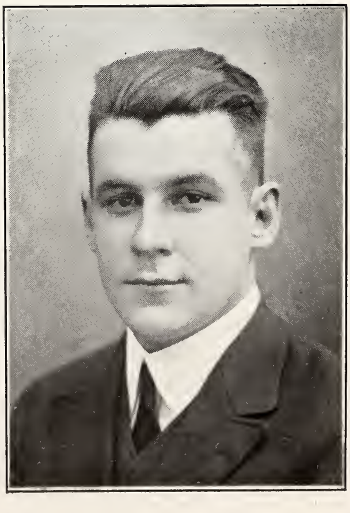
There's another department Crete's won honors in. You've guessed it?

GEORGE ASBURY CASE, B.S.

Hello, Sailor!

Lewiston High School; entered Bates in the Class of 1919; Class Basketball; Class Hockey; Class Baseball; Varsity Football; Outing Club; Military Science Club; U. S. Navy three years (active service).

Could the new "N" rays of Ahmed Hassan be harnessed for our use, or could the mystic powers of the Orient be applied to show the inside thoughts of our friends' and neighbors' minds, some of us would be scorched by the terrific impact of those rays. But by the laws of natural selection, there would be those individuals who would turn aside any fiery shafts and would come unburned from the terrific onslaught. Such a man would be a clean, neat, gentlemanly person; probably a quiet, thorough man with a straight, level gaze and a good, alert, happy personality; a man well liked by his fellows. George Asbury Case need have no fear.



LOIS AURORA CHANDLER, A.B.

Born August 9, 1899, Waterbury, Vermont; Alfred High; Class Secretary, 2; Y. W. C. A., Secretary 2, Vice-President 3; President 4; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club; Entre Nous; Alethea; Athletic Board, 1; Seniority; Delegate to National Convention, Y. W. C. A., Cleveland, 3.

Lois is the peacemaker of Twenty-One; she's always ready to do what she can to restore contentment and friendliness. If your feelings are hurt, go to her and have them soothed—if you want to nurse resentment, keep away, for Lois is the really worthwhile sort of person who means to achieve success even in small things. We are inclined to hazard a guess that her realest ambition is to understand folks. Is it, Lois?

RUTH COLBURN, A.B.

Born March 23, 1898, Lynn, Mass.; Lebanon High; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; U. A. C. C.; New Hampshire Club; Phil-Hellenic; I. C. S. A.

In spite of the crabbing tendencies ascribed to her by some, Ruth isn't such a terrible person to live with—ask her roomy. Always ready to do anything you ask if she can possibly spare the time, she is one of our reserve forces. And she knows how to have a good time, which is more than some of us appear to accomplish. Moreover, Ruth is a literary person and that adds a lot—Nicht war, Rufus?

EMMA MARIAN CONNOLLY, A.B.

"Em"

"When I was in Paris"

Born Sept. 8, 1900, Salmon Falls, N. H.; Class Secretary, 3; Manager Volleyball, 4; Entre Nous; Le Petit Salon; U. A. C. C.; Seniority, 3, 4; Hockey; Baseball; Volleyball; 2nd Basketball; Soccer; Track; Gym. Meet; Athletic Board, 4; Class Day Speaker.

"Where is my American?" "I can't find my Motion Picture Magazine." "Have you seen 'The River's End'?" Of course Em has them all. Adorable, romantic, impractical Emma, the movie fiend, the jazz hound, and Latin shark.

Emma's marks in hockey will abide alway. But Emma did not mean to do it.

"Sh"—it's Emma's day for studying. Well, I'd study only once a month if I could get "A's" that-a-way, wouldn't you?

CORA ANNIE COX, A.B.

Lubec; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios.

Cora is a little spitfire—the making of a revolutionist. She has good wheels in her head, too—they run along quite smoothly as she gets started on a tirade against the injustice of the present school system to the youth of the country. There is always an argument where there is Cora.—And by the way, she's what we call a warm brunette. Some hair, Cora, some hair!

JOHN M. CUSICK, A.B.

"Cuke"

"Weel,—I hope to tell yer."
"Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, that's a good one, Eddie!"

Born Sept. 22, 1897, Gardiner, Me.; Gardiner High School; President of Hall Association, 1; Cercle Francais, 2, 3; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; Student Council, 2, 3; Commons Committee, 4; President of Class, 3; Varsity Club (B), 2, 3, 4; Greek Play.

Here is one of our athletes from "along the Kennebec." Every spring "Cuke" burns 'em across for Bates, and during the summer he does the same thing for old Gardiner. For obvious reasons he must be classed as a romantic optimist, one of the type that the student body will miss and one who will always be remembered with pleasure by his classmates.

FELIX VINING CUTLER, B.S.

Born Feb. 24, 1894, Brookline, Mass.; Medfield High School; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Student Council, 2, 3, 4; Secretary, 3; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Varsity Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Football "B," 1, 2, 3, 4; Captain, 3; Varsity Hockey, 1, 3, 4; Captain, 4; Class Basketball, 4; Commons Committee, 3; U. S. A. Naval Aviation 2nd Lieut.

"Come on, fellows, let's put some fight into this!" And off he goes, unmindful of spikes or blows, until he finally digs himself out of the pile of struggling arms and legs, and Bates is ten yards nearer the goal. Or with the thermometer 20 degrees below he rallies his team, there is a flash of garnet and white and the puck has gone through Bowdoin's goal again. "Cut" is always ready to take a chance, whether it is in leading the charge "over the top" at J. B. H. or in making "Bessie" believe he is urgently needed at home.

MINERVA CUTLER, A.B.

Born in Newton Lower Falls, Mass.; Medfield High School; Secretary of Class, 1; Athletic Board Secretary, 2; Vice-President, 3; President, 4; Entre Nous; Y. W. C. A.; U. A. C. C.; Enkuklios Board, 3; Massachusetts Club, Vice-President, 2; President, 3; Outing Club; Class Social Committee; Advisory Committee of Student Government; President's Council; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 1, 3, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Soccer, 3; Captain Baseball, 1; Baseball, 1, 2; Numerals, "B"; Class Day Speaker.

What would '21 do without Min, who puts the pep into things. Whether it be backing up the forward line in hockey, blocking her opponent in basket-ball, or putting through a college activity, "Min" does it. When Min gets into politics, we know that her sense of fairness will make her as well known in the world as it has in college.

ALMON EUGENE DEANE, A.B.

"Al"

Born, 1898, in South Weymouth, Massachusetts; Weymouth High School; President of the Bates Outing Club, 4; Member of the Athletic Council, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club; Varsity Football, 1, 2, 3; Letter in Football, 1; Class Basketball, 4; Y. M. C. A.; Greek Play.

It is said that good men come from Massachusetts, and the better they are the sooner they come. He showed us what kind of stuff he was made of by starting off right in his Freshman year and making the varsity football team. One could not help being impressed with his straightforward and jovial disposition. As president of the Outing Club, he showed his ability by the work he did to create more enthusiasm in winter sports at Bates.

THEODORA DENNISON, A.B.

Born Oct. 11, 1899, East Corinth; Kennebunk High; Wilton Academy; Phil-Hellenic; Seniority; Outing Club; Hockey 2nd, 3; Volleyball, 3; Honor Student; Phi Beta Kappa.

Theda is one of our serious people; in fact, about the most serious we acknowledge, but in the last two years we have been discovering an enormous store of jollity previously unimagined. We are willing to admit our error—it is one common to the human animal—the tendency to judge by appearances only. Theda, your sense of humor is not so young as it is bashful, and folks are likely to misjudge bashful things. Cheer up, this isn't a sermon. Here's how, Theda, keep on grinning.

MAURICE HERMAN DION, A.B.

"Hardy"

"I'm done with it."

Born in Randolph, Maine, July 31, 1898; Gardiner High School; Assistant Manager of Track, 3; Manager of Track, 4; Class Football, 3.

On an October day in the fall of the year 1917 there strolled on the campus a youth who was going to accomplish several things in the four years to come. That noble looking young man was none other than Maurice "Hardy" Dion. Maurice has shown himself to be a very efficient and diligent worker. For when he was not mixing $MgSO_4$ with H_2O, or shovelling snow for the track department, he has been lending a hand in the management of certain bankrupt railway lines that we might mention. No mention need be made of Maurice's equally successful activities conducted along strictly romantic lines.

CAROLINE MARY DOE, A.B.

"Carriedoe"

Born Sept. 3, 1898, Apopka, Fla.; Plymouth High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club; Athletic Association, 3; Volley, 1, 4; Baseball, 1, 2; Hockey, 3, 4; Soccer, 3; Hockey 2nd, 1; Basketball 2nd, 4; "B"; Captain Volleyball, 4; Manager, 3.

A straightforward, efficient little body is Carrie. Always accomplishing things without any noise or confusion. If she is a bluffer, she is a very successful one, for everything connected with her seems genuine. She is jolly, too; heaps of fun on a good time, and especially so at out-of-door sports. Carrie is another of the invaluables of our class. We couldn't feel all together without you, Carriedoe.

ANNIE LILLIAN DUNLAP, A.B.

"Aunt Annie"

Born Sept. 19, 1898, Richmond; Richmond High; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Seniority; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Secretary-Treasurer of Seniority; Honor Student.

"Can't you picture the parish youngsters swarming over the parsonage to enjoy the unfailing wit and humor of the pastor's wife?" She can sew well enough to pass the censorship of the Ladies' Circle, too, and what a help her uncanny knowledge of books will be when she has to entertain the visiting clergy! Remember, Lillian, that not all of the flock have such excellent shock absorbers as "The Reverend."

MORLEY JOHNSON DUROST, A.B.

Born June 10, 1894, Fort Fairfield, Maine; Aroostook Central Institute; Military Science Club; Forum; Politics Club; Phil-Hellenic Club; President, 4; Honor Student; Greek Play Committee.

Here is to a prince among men—Durost. At first we did not know just where to place him because of his quiet, unassuming air. We soon discovered him, however, just as did Doctor Tubbs, who chose him as one of his instructors in Geology, and as did also the Phil-Hellenic Club, which elected him as its president. Yes, we know Durost now, as a man with a serious smile, gentle manner, an excellent student and a friend.

RAYMOND ANTHONY EBNER, A.B.

"Charley," "Eb"

"Now there you go again."

Born March 7, 1899, Thomaston, Conn.; Thomaston High School; Baseball, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Club, 3, 4; "B," 3; Class Football; Class Treasurer, 3; Class Hockey, 3, 4.

Since "Eb" arrived from Connecticut, a youth showing much promise, our knowledge of that spicy commonwealth has continued to increase and he has been successful in fulfilling that promise. In the first place, he has always been clever in his studies in a modest sort of a way; for two years he has played left field on the varsity nine, seldom spectacular but always Charley on the spot. Ability attended with modesty is characteristic of "Eb."

MILDRED PRATT EDWARDS, A.B.

Always busy—never in a hurry.

Born May 3, 1900, Souhtington, Conn.; Lewis High School; Phil-Hellenic, 2, 3, 4; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; U. A. C. C.; Entre Nous; Enkuklios; "X"tra Club; Seniority; Vice-President of "X"tra Club, 3; President of "X" tra Club, 4; Chairman of Social Service Committee Y. W., 3; Chairman of Religious Meetings Committee, 4; 2nd team Baseball, 1, 2; 2nd team Hockey, 2, 3, 4; 2nd team Volleyball, 3, 4; 2nd team Soccer, 3; Numerals; Proctor at Milliken, 3, and at Rand, 4.

"Say, Mil, will you do something for me?" "Why of course—what is it?"

This is characteristic of Mil. She's always where she ought to be—in fact, wherever she can do the most good, and her disposition, joyfully resisting the rougher edges of human nature, continues purposeful, happy, and smiling. Some of us envy you, Mil.

ETHEL MURIEL FAIRWEATHER, A.B.

Born July 12, 1898, Portland, Maine; Portland High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Alethea; Portland Club.

Ethel is a quiet little dear who would have us consider her truly wicked; eh, Ethel? Worldly wise and skilled in the combat of life. To her, men are the supreme source of interest—when they are not a bore. Oh, yes, even Ethel finds them thus at times—she told us so. So Ethel pretends to be a vamp—and although her real self is not concerned with the complete comprehension of the male, we are completely fooled, and hand her the honor of being the Class Vamp.

P.S.—We were in error—and apologize.

CLARENCE ALFRED FIELD, B.S.

"Silent"

Born January 21, 1899, in Auburn, Maine; Edward Little High School.

We do not feel quite so well acquainted with Clarence as we do with some of our other classmates, because he lives in Auburn and never talks much. He is known as "Silent" because he never says anything except in class when he is called on, but then he always comes through with the right answer. He is a scientist, in several branches, but he is more than that, for he can write poetry when he tries. Most of us remember his rhymed account of the Chem. 3 course. He is a hard worker, and we predict he will get there, in spite of the fact that he never advertises himself.

MARGUERITE HELEN FINDLEN, A.B.

"Dite"

Born Nov. 20, 1898, Fort Fairfield; Fort Fairfield High; Enkuklios; Basketball 2nd, 1; Volleyball, 1.

After trying to scurry up something from Dite's past and failing miserably (why, we couldn't even discover that she'd ever eaten any bananas at night time) we have decided that we'll have to summarize briefly her chief characteristics and let it go at that. Let's see now, she's quiet, pleasant, cheerful, leisurely, lanky, rather pretty, rather witty, and altogether nice to look upon. SH! Something else, too, a secret—she's studious!

ESTHER EMILY FISHER, A.B.

Born Feb. 24, 1899, Lewiston, Maine; E. L. H. S.; Entre Nous; Enkuklios; U. A. C. C.; Outing Club; Hockey, 1; Baseball, 1.

Esther has never caused a ripple on the surface of the class, but she has been handy when 1921 wanted to borrow anything, from a couple of silver tea-sets to a car or two. In her Sophomore year, she took up surveying with noticeable results as seen on her left hand—a beauty, isn't it? But don't be envious—you know we all haven't her qualifications: a good disposition, a knowledge of cooking and housekeeping, and a dimple.

RUTH KATHARINE FISHER, A.B.

"I don't care what happens, I'm going to get a letter to-morrow."

Born Nov. 26, 1899, Franklin, Mass.; Horace Mann High; Glee Club Manager, 4; Enkuklios, 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios Treasurer, 4; Second Hockey, 2, 4; Glee Club, 3, 4; Honor Student.

Doesn't she look wide-awake in this picture? But alas! appearances are so deceitful, because you can nearly always find her curled up on her couch, sound asleep. What matters it that the hours slip, or that lessons are unprepared, when she can outshine us all in class. And, by the way, that dimpled smile has done much to brighten up the class and to make the spirit of 1921 ideal.

ARNOLD LINCOLN GANLEY, A.B.

"Dip," "Link," "Lightening"

"Oh my Gawsh!"

How we admire a fellow who is characterized by an even, sanguine temperament and whose disposition is remarkable for its amiability. Again, how we envy him as he excludes the word worry from his vocabulary. Yes, we've got to hand it to "Link"; he is the personification of nonchalance and optimism. We fellows like to visit him in his "hang out"—room 31, Parker Hall—and hear him jazz that old banjo so eloquently. In turn we are always glad to have him enter our sanctum sanctorum and interrupt our study with some of that droll humour which is his specialty. Arnold is an exceptionally good student, but above all a "simon pure" good fellow and—"It's always fair weather when good fellows get together * * *"

BARBARA P. GOULD, A.B.

"Barb"

Born July 20, 1898; Plymouth High; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; U. A. C. C.; Entre Nous; N. H. Club; Choir; Glee Club; Leader, 4; Baseball, 1, 2, 3; Hockey 2nd, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3; Basketball, 4; "B."

Barb is the jolliest person you could imagine, and a veritable heart-breaker. Gee, Barb, that's a terrible rep! And do you know, you let yourself in for a deal of something or other when you cut your hair, because it makes you look cuter than ever; at least that's what we hear whispered on the other side of the campus, and the girls like it so much they forget to be jealous. Here's to you, Barb. Don't let that grin wear off.

CARROLL OWEN GREENE, A.B.

"Major"

"Oh, shucks! That's the third envelope I've spoiled."

Born May 4, 1894, Vinalhaven, Me.; Vinalhaven High School; former member of classes of 1916 and 1917; member of Piaerian Society, 1; Class Track, 2, 3, 4; Class Football, 3, 4; Outing Club; Y. M. C. A.

Owen is one of our returned World War veterans, having spent over a year in France with the A. E. F. To know him is to like him. A good friend, an agreeable companion and a good sport, he has won a warm place in the hearts of us all during the two years he has been with us. But don't let that quiet, unassuming manner of his deceive you, for beneath it there is a driving and persistent force that insures his success in whatever he undertakes.

LEROY CALDERWOOD GROSS, B.S.

"Grossie"

Born Vinalhaven, Maine; Vinalhaven High School; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Class Football, 3, 4; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Captain, 4, Varsity Track; Manager of Hockey, 4; "B."

Leroy comes directly from Vinalhaven where they grow good men. He is one of those boys blessed with an abundance of both brain and brawn. Whether it is on the athletic field or in the class room, he shows that same old "do or die" spirit and always comes up smiling. That same cheerful smile of his has won him many a friend on both sides of the campus—a good many more, perhaps, "across the way," than he is aware of. You have started the game right, "Grossie"; keep it up.

MABEL VAUGHN HALEY, A.B.

"I'll do it for you."

Born Jan. 30, 1898, Greene, Me.; Monmouth Academy; Sabattus High; Ramsdell Scientific, Vice-President, 3; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Alethea.

Mabel is ever ready to lend a helping hand. She even makes out Freshman schedules. She has a remarkably good disposition, yet how she did sputter when she heard the Freshmen's term of probation had been lengthened to February first. Although Mabel's tastes are scientific rather than literary, she knows every line of Carlyle's "Hero Worship." Her specialty, however, is ornithology and although the "price of wisdom is above rubies" the diamond was not mentioned.

GLADYS FLORENCE HALL, A.B.

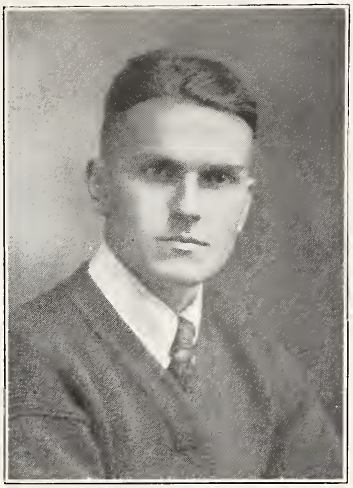
Born Dec. 3, 1899, Exeter, N. H.; Manchester High; Phil-Hellenic, Vice-President, 3; Seniority; Alethea, President, 3; Forum, Treasurer, 3, Secretary, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club; Prize Decs, 1, 2; Sophomore Debates, also Winning Team; Junior Oration; Ivy Day Speaker; Assistant Arg., 3, 4; Assistant Geology, 4; Φ Β Κ; Honor Student; Greek Play.

At last! Oh Muse, inspire us! How to tell about Glad in this brief space! Is there anything she hasn't done? She is brilliant, even to the point of irony at times (beware, Glad, don't overwork it. She is genial when she wishes, she has perfect control of herself, she does everything under the sun, she—but what's the use, O Muse—words fail us! We can but say we admire your skill, Glad.

HARRY THOMAS HALL, A.B.

Born October 29, 1898, Buckfield, Maine; Buckfield High School; Cercle Francais; Musical Clubs; Y. M. C. A.; Class Hockey; Class Football; Baseball, 2nd team; College Choir; Greek Play.

Mr. Hall from Buckfield made his first appearance with the class of 1921 when Mr. Bates' army was organized in 1918. His demeanor gives him the appearance of an earnest and sincere student. Far be it from me to let the true facts be known. Harry sang tenor efficiently in the glee club two years and was one of its leading vamps. There are times when Harry is very, very serious. He seems to be meditating on things far away from our sordid sphere. It must be that he is a philosopher. Otherwise,—well, we will not think of it. The impression that he has made on the co-eds and the tribute that he has received from them are listed elsewhere.



FRANK HAMLIN, A.B.

Born September 8, 1901, Balasore, India; Jordan High, Lewiston, Me.; Honor Student.

A brilliant person is Frank, truly brilliant, a thing which can be said of comparatively very few persons. His cynically pessimistic tendencies can be laid at the door of his extreme youth. Really, Frank, you wouldn't look half so worse if you'd smile oftener. That seems to be your chief fault. As a critic, you are very interesting and show signs of unusual ability, but because of the common failing of humanity, we are likely to despair of you if you don't grin once in a while; you know, people judge extensively by appearances.

EDWIN JAMES HARRIMAN, B.S.

"Eddie"

Born September 9, 1897, Randolph, Maine; Gardiner High School; Greek Play.

Here is the steady, dependable lad who has ploughed through his four years of college with the sincerest interest in the navy and a little romance on the side. "Eddie" had a job cut out for him when he came back from the navy and had to make up the spring term's work, of the Sophomore year, but he came through nobly and caught up with his class. When he begins teaching school in the wilds of Vermont next year, he will have the advantage over a good many of his classmates. He will have his home and friends to retire to after a strenuous day's work, and some say that is the supreme satisfaction of life.

LESTER HARRIMAN, B.S.

"Chewing-Gum"

Born June 1, 1897, Richmond, Me.; Gardiner High, 1917; U. S. Navy, 1918; Class Football, 2; Politics Club, 4; Greek Play.

"Behold the man" for whom Rand has no terrors. He used to stand at the bottom of the stairs in Rand and pick out the best looker as she came down. "Les" has steadied down now, though. His favorite resort in the beautiful spring-time is Mt. David. One can't always be sure who he is with, though. Although "Les" lived in the city he is better known to us than most town fellows because he spent the first year in J. B. and another in Parker with his brother Eddie. "Les" has been one of Uncle Sam's "gobs" and he still occasionally revisits the scene of his warlike activities. He thinks college life is rather dull (because of the classes). We extend our sympathies to the world when "Les" gets to tearing around, trying to make it speed up.

DOROTHY IRMA HASKELL, A.B.

Born Nov. 19, 1900; E. L. H. S.; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4; Spofford Play, 2, 3, 4; Ivy Poem, 3; College Song and Cheer Leader of Girls, 3, 4; Hockey, 1, 3; Basketball (2nd), 1, 2, 3; (1st), 4; Glee Club, 4; Assistant in English, 3, 4; Editor Student Magazine (1919-20); Personal Editor of 1921 MIRROR; "B"; Prize Winner Declamations, 1, 2; Junior Orations, 3; Class Day Speaker, 4; Greek Play.

With that atom of four feet four before us, brimming over with pep, we cheer until our vocal cords refuse to assist us. But is Irma a Bates woman? Oh, no, she's only a co-ed; she sings—Out Loud!—on the campus, when Bowdoin boys are around!! Every Prof. knows better than to expect her before at least ten minutes after the last bell. Even Dave looks anxiously up Rand Hall stairs, only after he has waited for one-half hour or more. But late or early, in basketball or prize speaking, Irma always "gets there."

BERNICE M. HATCH, A.B.

Born Aug. 6, 1900, Beaver Dam, N. B.; Plymouth High; Enkuklios; Entre Nous; New Hampshire Club; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

Bunny hails from the hills o' Hampshire and though she landed in our midst a month late Freshman year, it only evidenced to us that Bunny is slow and easy, but she gets there just the same. Bunny's only outdoor sport is chasing cats on spring evenings—ask her about it. If you want to know what is going on downtown in the movie line, she can always give you the desired information because Bunny is a movie fan. Perhaps we like her best because she is always cheery and good-natured.

EUNICE IRENE HAWKINS, A.B.

Born March 14, 1899, Lisbon, N. H.; Lisbon High School; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Y. W. C. A.; Alethea; Seniority; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4, 2nd; Volleyball, 1, 2nd, 4; Hockey, 2nd, 2, 3, 4; Numerals.

Eunice is a corking good scout and a heap of fun whenever you go in to see her. You'll generally find her at her desk of an evening, with the dull green shade on her lamp fixed just so, and a fat note-book spread open before her. Maybe you're thirsty and would like to borrow her cup—you don't need to disturb her, for you've used it before, and it's always in the same place.

P.S.—She was "captain actual" of the second team basketball—and kept 'em in peppy condition.

AGRANDECE L. HEALEY, A.B.

"Where's Min, Eddie?"

Born April 28, 1899, Pittsfield, Maine; M. C. I.; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; 2nd team Hockey, 2; 2nd team Baseball, 1, 2.

We learned early in our college course to go to Dece for many things, especially for all kinds of doses and the best divinity fudge ever made. No wonder this latter accomplishment has made her so popular at Parker Hall! We girls, however, have found that her domestic ability is almost unlimited. She has always presided so well over the chafing dishes at our good old spreads that cherished memories of Dece and her culinary art will remain with us till we meet again.

LAURA MARGARET HERRICK, A.B.

"Oh! You lucky dog."

Born April 15, 1899, Leeds, Maine; Leavitt Institute; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Vice-President, 2; Seniority; Le Petit Salon; Vice-President of Class, 4; President of Student Government Association; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 2nd team, 4; Volleyball, 2, 3, 2nd team, 1; Basketball, 1, 3; Baseball, 1, 2.

Laura is our star bluffer—an honest-to-goodness jolly kid, who knows how to have a good time, but when she shone forth as president of Stu Gee—ye gods! We never knew of anything in the form of good fun that Laura doesn't know how to do—and we probably never shall. When asked if there was anything she didn't like to do, she looked a trifle puzzled and then remarked with a little laugh, "I don't know of anything."

MARGUERITE FRANCES HILL, A.B.

"Ferdie"

"I wanted to know how it would feel."

Born April 3, 1898, Rochester, N. H.; E. L. H. S.; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Seniority, 4; Spofford, 2, 3, 4; Secretary-Treasurer, 3; Vice-President, 4; Hockey, 1, 2; Volleyball, 1, 2, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Tennis, 1, 2, 3, 4; Captain, 1; "B"; Ivy Day Ode; Literary Editor of 1921 MIRROR.

Marg is our literary genius and has all the attendant idiosyncrasies of the species. Her favorite form of amusement is observing life in its human manifestations. As a problem, she rivals an entire calculus; as a human, she is a dissector of experience and a cavernous gulf of curiosity—she would like to have known every experience in captivity or out; as a comrade she's witty, interesting, and ready for anything. Here's to you, creature of moods, odd mixture of everything: here's how, and success.

FLORENCE EUNICE HODGDON, A.B.

Born Dec. 11, 1899, Rochester, N. H.; Rochester High; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; New Hampshire Club; I. C. S. A.; Phil-Hellenic Club; U. A. C. C.; Secretary-Treasurer of Phil-Hellenic Club, 3; Secretary-Treasurer of New Hampshire Club; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 1, 2; Captain, 1; 2nd team Basketball, 1, 2; Baseball, 1, 2; Numerals; "B."

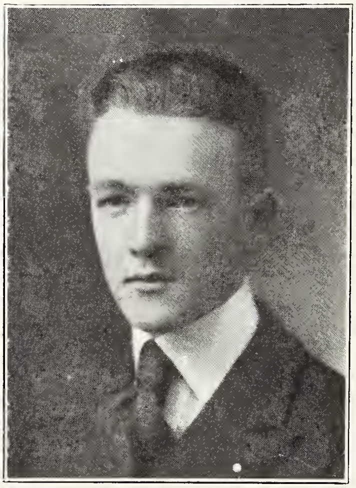
A creature of moods is Florence, who still sails calmly on trying, perhaps unconsciously, to conceal her moodiness. She's good in anything she tries to do and she isn't noisy about it either. In spite of her Puritanical heredity, she proceeds to be wonderfully modern in her point of view and she is the most naïve young person you are likely to meet. She has two hobbies, needlework and Charlie.

WILLIAM H. HODGMAN, A.B.

"Bill"

Born, July 2, 1900, Milford, N. H.; Amherst High School, Amherst, N. H.; home address, Amherst, N. H.; Manager 1920 "Student"; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Manager 1921 MIRROR; Politics Club, 4; Class and Varsity Track, 3, 4; Assistant in Geology, 4; Greek Play.

Holding down a manager's job on the Student and MIRROR speaks well for his ability; doing his turn on the track every day during the season shows his determination. The fact that he roomed with the same guy for four years is sufficient indication that he has great forbearance and a remarkably even disposition. Bill won't have to worry about getting along in the world, no matter what line he may take up.



EDNA FRANCES HUGHES, A.B.

Born March 31, 1899, South Portland, Maine; South Portland High; Portland Club; St. Michael's Club; U. A. C. C.; Seniority; Enkuklios; College Choir, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 2, 3, 4; St. Michael's Choir; Volleyball, 1; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 3, 4, Manager, 3, 4; Hockey, 2, 3, 4; Soccer, 3.

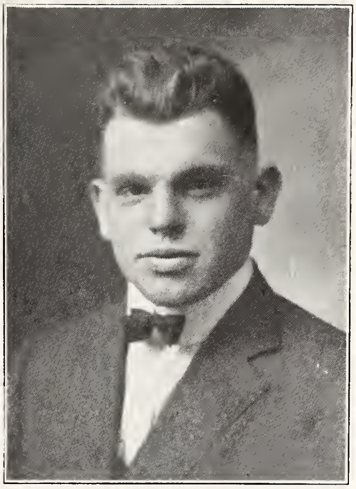
Fran is the kid that knows how to take care of herself. She doesn't work herself all out the day before a game, and then go round saying, "I'm so tired." No, that's not Fran. Just before the battle begins, she goes calmly about on visits to the various nerve-racked members of the team and soothes their worries, quiets their fears; and it's not till everyone is coolly ready that she allows herself to remark fearfully, "I'm so nervous."

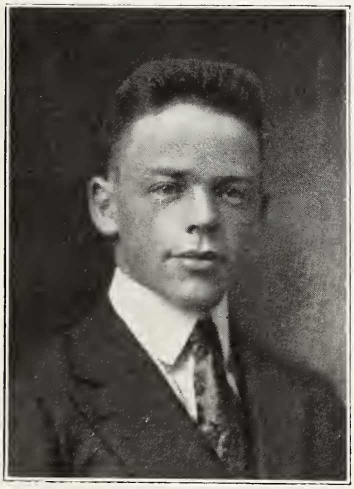
GEORGE ROYAL HUTCHINSON, A.B.

"Hutch"

Born in Lewiston, Maine, November 28, 1900; Winthrop High School; Assistant Manager of Hockey, 2; Politics Club, 4; Forum, 4; Debating Council, 4; Junior Exhibition; Class Football, 2; Class Track, 3; Assistant in Geology, 4; Student Staff; Greek Play.

"Kik-ki-kik-kik-HAW-HAW-HAW!!" Floor and walls tremble, dishes dance, eating ceases. Far down the hall a green waiter stands as though petrified, having just poured a bowl of gravy down Bill Hodgman's neck! The noise? Hutch is merely showing his huge appreciation. Now, this does not mean that George is ethereal at all—far from it. He is, rather, solid and methodical; we remember him as preacher, poet, salesman, debater, high diver, and even small town vamp! A place awaits him in the Hall of Fame, for he has mastered the art of doing things on time. We envy Hutch!





MAYNARD STICKNEY JOHNSON, A.B.

"A progeny of learning."

Born Jan. 21, 1900, Brownville, Me.; Brownville High School; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Military Science Club, 4; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Assistant in Biology, 4; Phi Beta Kappa; Honor Student.

"What'd you give me if I open the door Saturday afternoon?" No, Maynard is not avaricious but he does love lady scientists' fudge. He is ready to try anything or anyone once, from a moonlight waltz to a sermon. He gets all A's in History. Yet, poor boy, he can't help it. As a neighbor remarked soon after his birth (not long ago, at that), "Too bad that boy of Johnson's ain't quite right." This abnormality, sad to say, seems to extend to all other subjects on the curriculum.

KATHERINE HUNT JONES, A.B.

"Kate"

"Isn't it great! and isn't Nilesy a WONDER!"

Born July 30, 1898, Norway, Maine; Norway High; Ramsdell Sci., 3, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Athletic Board, 2, 4; Cabinet, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Hockey, 1, 2, 3; Volleyball, 1, 3; Basketball, Captain, 1, 3, Manager, 2.

Kate—the best loved girl in Twenty-one, the only ever regular girl. Class spirit? Look at Kate. Athletics? Look at Kate. To be on the safe side, just keep your eyes on that likable young lady all the time—if you're on the lookout for an all-'round good sport. Reliable, Kate is: she's always there. And lest we forget, there is one part of her we'll always remember—her voice—when she's leading cheers—great fun, eh, scout?

CAROLINE THERESA JORDAN, A.B.

"Splash me!"

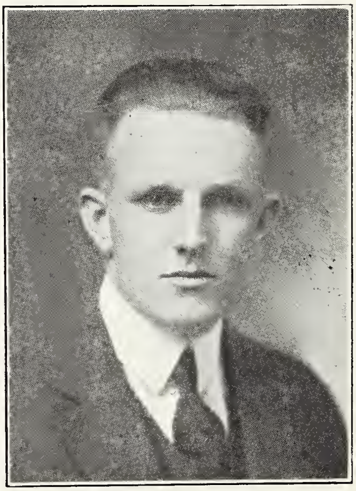
Born July 13, 1899, Auburn, Maine; Jordan High School; Ramsdell Scientific Society, 3, 4; President, 4; Class Executive Committee, 1, 2; Enkuklios; Alethea; Y. W. C. A.; Choir, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 2, 3, 4; Orchestra, 3, 4; Presidents' Council, 4; Mirror Board; Ivy Day Speaker, 3; Athletic Board, 4; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 1, 3, 4; Basketball, 1, 2, 3, 4; Track, 1, 3, 4, Captain, 1; Baseball, 1, 2; Soccer, 3, 4; Manager, 3; Numerals; "B."

Carrie is our noisiest, jolliest, happy-go-luckiest, only original bouncing kid. You can't be solemn with Carrie. Her one weak spot is her inability to get a joke—she can't see the point—never could—until you've explained it at least three times, but she makes up for her slowness, then, with a mighty "Haw, haw! Ain't that a funny joke." And she'll try anything once; eh, Carrie?

ROBERT JORDAN, B.S.

Born May 24, 1897, Bethel, Me.; Westbrook Seminary; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, 2, 3; Advisory Board, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; President, 4; Student Council, 4; Band, 1, 2, 3, 4; Orchestra, 3; Mandolin Club, 2; Class Executive Committee, 1; Class Treasurer, 3; President R. W. Hall Association, 4; Assistant in Biology, 4; Phi Beta Kappa; Honor Student; Class Day Speaker.

Bob entered upon his collegiate career with the class of 1919, and remained out of college for two years in order to take part in the Imperial German Government. His scholastic pursuits are characterized by industry and skilled workmanship; his relations with his fellow-students by dignified but cordial comradeship; and his philosophy of life by an unprejudiced receptiveness to new ideas and a vigorous sense of humor.



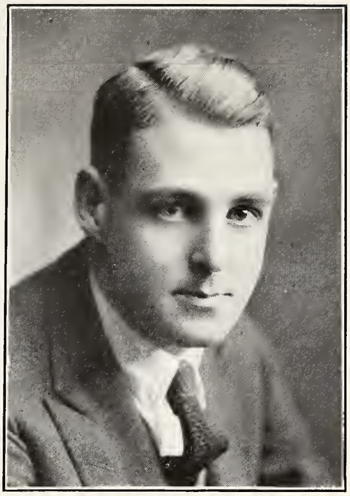
RACHEL SOUTHWICK KNAPP, A.B.

"Rae"

Born March 31, 1900, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High, Lewiston, Me.; Vice-President of Class, 1; Manager of Tennis, 4; Member Athletic Board, 4; Secretary of Macfarlane Club, 4; Mirror Board, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Alethea; Macfarlane; Le Petit Salon; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Phi Beta Kappa; Honor Student; Greek Play.

Two little owls sat on a branch.
In the moon's Rae through the trees.
They both shone bright
For they Don-ned that night
Phi Beta Kappa keys.

It is perhaps strange but when we think of Rae, we think of Don, and vice versa. They seem to complement each other and that, we suppose, is as it should be. Rae is an easy-going, cheerful sort of a person with a charming grin.



WILLIAM HAROLD LANGLEY, B.S.

"Bill"

"Yes, I'm having a wonderful time; I do enjoy dancing so much!"

Born Feb. 9, 1897, Milton, N. H.; Nute High School; Politics Club; Varsity Baseball, 3, 4; "B," 3; President Athletic Association, 4.

Read a good old Southern love story with a hero in it who shows all those laudable and gentlemanly traits which we admire. Think of a story of the North and West with men of strength and daring and manhood. Ponder for a few moments over the hero of a story of the East, where grace, polish, and style abound. "Bill' Langley is the composite of all these fine qualities. He is the hero of the story come to life; tall, fine-looking, refined, and amiable.

RUTH LIBBEY, A.B.

Born 1899, Wolfeboro Falls, N. H.; Brewster Free Academy; Alethea, 3; Secretary and Treasurer Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; U. A. C. C.; New Hampshire Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Glee Club, 4; Hockey 2nd Team, 3, 4; Baseball 2nd Team, 2; Soccer sub., 2nd Team, 3; History Assistant, 4; Honor Student.

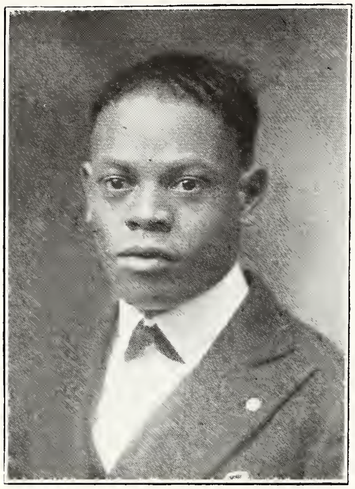
Libbey is "Pa" Gould's assistant, yet she seems to be withstanding the honor remarkably. She is the same sunny little robin who came down from her beloved New Hampshire hills where she says she leads a wild life in the good old summer-time. She's not half so noisy as a "Big Ben," yet she is exactly as accurate and even more dependable.

FLORENCE GERTRUDE LINDQUIST, A.B.

"For the love o' Lulu."

Born Sept. 18, 1898; Manchester High; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; U. A. C. C.; Seniority; Phil-Hellenic Club, 2, 3, 4, Treasurer, 4; New Hampshire Club, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; I. C. S. A.; Library Assistant, 2, 3, 4; 2nd Team Baseball, 1, 2; 2nd Team Hockey, 3; Phi Beta Kappa; Honor Student.

Florence is one of those plucky individuals who, when they have a thing to do, will get it done though the heavens fall. It isn't every one who can hold several offices, work eight days a week in the library, give an occasional spread, run away for the week-end—and on top of it all wear a Phi Beta Kappa key. We who have known her in college, predict that whatever career she chooses will prove a "shining" one.



ROSCOE LEWIS McKINNEY, B.S.

"Mack"

Born February 8, 1900, Washington, D. C.; Dunbar High School, Washington, D. C.; Freshman Prize Declamations; Class Football; Class Track Team; Varsity Track Team; Y. M. C. A.; Outing Club; Forum; Omega, Phi Phi.

Who is the fellow that we see over in the zoölogy laboratory six or eight hours a day, noting a few fine points in the embryological development of the chick or preparing slides for Pom? We all shall watch with interest and admiration his work at Harvard Medic for the next four years, and we know he will make some Doctor. But we must not forget how Mack can get off with the crack of the gun and tear down the cinder path for a hundred or two-twenty yard dash. Whose pretty picture is that on his desk in 16 Parker? Time will tell.

MARIE MARCELLINE ELEANORE MARGUERITE MENARD, A.B.

Born Oct. 2, 1900, Holyoke, Mass.; M. C. I.; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon; Prize Speaking, 1, 2; Prize, 2; Assistant in Oratory, 4; Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Greek Play.

I dreamed—I dreamed she kidded Ex-President Wilson and George Washington. I dreamed I saw her on the Midway, or was it opposite Henry Irving, or was she the Russian Ballerina? Anyway, it was something for which she had trained for four years—and thoroughly, too.

As a matter of fact, Marcelline does everything thoroughly and when she "commences" the world will sit up and take notice—for Marcelline gets what she goes out after, and goes out after what she wants.

EDNA LEIGHTON MERRILL, A.B.

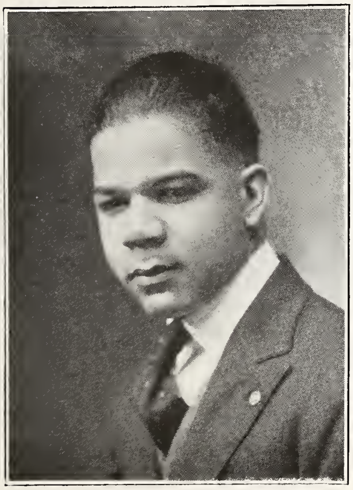
Born Nov. 14, 1899, Mechanic Falls; Mechanic Falls High; Y. W. C. A.; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Le Petit Salon, 1, 2; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4; Mandolin Club, 1; Enkuklios, President, 4; Student Government Board; Freshman Prize Declamations.

"Did you ever hear anything like it! I gave them a piece of my mind! Why, they're perfect fools!"—and Eddie is off again on one of her thrilling but utterly harmless tirades, while the rest of us are doubled up helplessly on the couch. Eddie is an enthusiast; whatever appeals to her (and there is little indeed that doesn't), brings forth an irresistible bubbling over of Eddie, and we smile as we watch her accomplish things in her busy little way. She is very charming, too, as hostess of Enkuklios teas and receptions.

DOT MILLER, A.B.

Born 1899, East Sumner, Maine; Berwick Academy; I. C. S. A. (elector); accompanist Glee and Mandolin Clubs, 3; Glee Club, 4; Y. W. C. A.; Athletic Board, 3; U. A. C. C.; Alethea; Seniority; Macfarlane Club; Y. W. Cabinet, 4; 1st Hockey, 3; 2nd Hockey, 2; sub., 4; Soccer, 3; 2nd Volley, 4.

Quiet, purposeful, and inordinately cheerful is Dot, sometimes called "Dottie" by those who wish to show affection and forget the inappropriateness of the diminutive. Dot is one of our most logical students—that is to say, she studies logically and her notebooks are the neatest of any in the class. Success to you, scout; keep right on living in the same unobtrusive, worth-while way.



LEWIS TANNER MOORE, B.S.

"Lewy"

Born June 20, 1899, Washington, D. C.; Storer College, Harpers Ferry, W. Va.; Freshman and Sophomore years spent at Teachers College, Howard University, Washington, D. C.; entered Bates, 1919; Class Football; Y. M. C. A.; Outing Club; Senior Exhibition; Greek Play.

Where's his home town? That's hard to tell, for his circle of friends hail from all points along the coast. What's his hobby? Ah, Business? That's it, an embryonic Wall Street lion. The two years that "Lewy" has been with us he has shown himself a well-versed lad, and he is bound to be the man of the hour. Mr. Moore is a Fine Arts student, and maybe that accounts for the admirable collection of "Pulchræ Feminæ" that cover the walls over his desk.

EDWARD ALLEN MORRIS, A.B.

Born in Baltimore, Maryland, December 4, 1897; Franklin High School, Baltimore; also Private Instruction; Class Chaplain, 3, 4; Phil-Hellenic Club; Macfarlane Club; Glee Club; Outing Club; Varsity Debater; Won Junior Prize Oration; Senior Exhibition; Class Day Speaker; Greek Play.

Who is the man with that wonderful and persuasive voice? "Brother" Morris. "Ed" stepped into our midst as a Junior. No longer does he plow his weary way to New Vineyard. To what end? To expound the gospel to the natives, of course. Yes, but now that "they" are one, he has forsaken the monastery for Auburn, and his week-end trips take him only as far as South Paris. Morris's oratory, debating and singing together with his genial spirit have won him a place in the hearts of Bates men and women.

ISABELLA FAIRLEY MORRISON, A.B.

"Izzie"

"It would be safer that way."

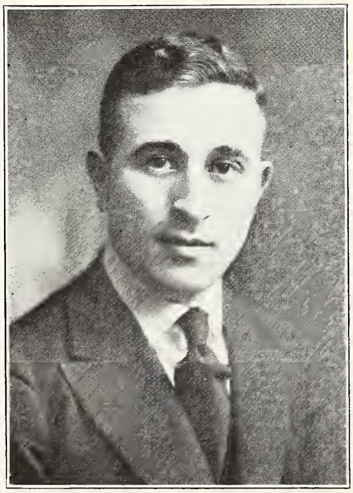
Born Dec. 30, 1898, Auburn, Me.; Lisbon Falls High; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Class Secretary, 4; Mandolin Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Leader, 4; U. A. C. C., 2; Massachusetts President, 4; Student Government Council; Outing Club, 3, 4.

Isabel was the most promising girl in our class, until she met Grandpa. At least she was so considered by persons of discernment. Our Izzie is a svelt and charming young lady—very Scotch—who is developing rather coquettish tendencies in hysterical haste. Cheer up, Izzie, they're pleasant while they last. It's a HECTIC life, isn't it?

HARRY SEVERY NEWELL, A.B.

Born Dec. 21, 1896, Turner, Maine; Leavitt Institute; Class Treasurer, 1; Manager of Tennis, 3; "B"; Varsity Track, 3, 4; Class Track; Forum; Assistant in Chemistry, 4; Outing Club.

Harry is not the type of man to spend much time in advertising his accomplishments. Harry is never content unless he is busy. When he has not been managing tennis, participating in track events or instructing Freshmen at the Chem Lab, he has amused himself by doing such things as attending Shriners' meetings and their frequent dances, taking the census for Uncle Sam, and administering the Baptismal rites upon the table accoutrements of a down-town eating establishment. He certainly believes that variety is the spice of life,



PHILIP BERNARD PASQUALE, A.B.

"Phil"

Born Aug. 14, 1897, Boston, Mass.; Jordan High School, Lewiston, Me.; Entered Class of 1920; Harvard Radio School.

Phil is a hard working man. He is not only a student and a bluffer, but he spends hours and hours every week in a shoe store down town. Faith yes, he's a shoe clerk, and whiles away his extra time running across to the drug store for sodas. He is somewhat of a Spanish shark and has a way with the ladies, we have heard it remarked. But he's not a ladies' man—not any way you look at it; heavens no! He is sensible.

CHARLES DITCHFIELD PAUL, A.B.

"The Apostle"

Born July 8, 1892, Ware, Mass.; Mt. Hermon School, Northfield, Mass., 1916; Bangor Theological Seminary, 1919; Phil-Hellenic Club, 3, 4; Macfarlane Club, 4; Mt. Hermon Club; Choir, 3, 4; Glee Club, 4; Greek Play.

Charlie entered 1921 at the beginning of our Junior year, his previous years of study being spent at the Bangor Seminary of Theology. He soon gained the name of the Apostle on account of his week-end preaching trips. Throughout the two years that he has been with us he has lived in consistence with his profession. He is a man of decided convictions, yet tactful in their application. Upon different occasions we have been privileged to hear expressions of his musical ability and we know that this talent will help him much in his chosen profession.

LEON WINTHROP PERKINS, B.S.

"Perk"

Born April 19, 1899, Ogunquit, Maine; Westbrook Seminary; Director of Outing Club, 4; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

"Perk" is a keen-eyed, clear-headed product of the Pine Tree State. Ambition is his middle name. Once he makes up his mind to do a thing, you may be sure that the thing will be done. While "Perk" is not carrying away any keys or prizes for scholarship, yet he is a hard-working student, and is known as a logical thinker. It is said that he has been practising off campus the experience and training in public speaking gained in Oratory classes. Leon stands well with his classmates and is recognized as a man of ability. We know that when he gets his sheepskin he will make a name for himself in his future work.

CHARLES WELSH PETERSON, B.S.

"Charlie"

Born Sept. 29, 1899; South Portland High School; Manager of Class Baseball, 1; Class Treasurer, 2; Captain Class Track, 2; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Class Football, 3; Varsity Cross Country, 3, 4; Outing Club, 3, 4; Secretary, 4; Manager Baseball, 4.

"Pete," or "Charlie," whichever you wish to call him, is the fellow who always greets his friends with a cordial "Hi there" and a pleasant smile. And, too, he is one of the most methodical chaps you ever saw. In classes he takes no back seat for anyone. "Charlie" has participated in one way or another in most everything from assistant in surveying to manager of baseball. Above all things, "Charlie Pete" has shattered and cast to the four winds "Doc" Britan's theory that there is no such thing as love at first sight.

ERNESTINE PHILBROOK, A.B.

Born Nov. 30, 1897, Bethel, Maine; Gould's Academy; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Seniority; Vice-President Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios Board; Sophomore Prize Declamations; Ivy Day Committee; Commencement Program Committee; MIRROR Board; Greek Play; Senior Exhibition.

"Say, Irma, where do you keep your rouge? I feel like the very deuce, and I've got to see Buzz at dinner and if she sees me looking like this—! Well, I'm going to that dance, that's all!" And she goes, too. A rather graceful mixture of charm and business efficiency is Phil, and a very pleasant personage to talk with. We are inclined to believe that if she has a hobby it's quoting Bob. You know you do, Phil, so don't argue. Any time you are desirous of seeing her and have made the mistake of coming to Rand, rectify your error by hasting to the Qual—ten to one she's there; it's a favorite hang-out of hers.

ARLENE HOWLAND PIKE, A.B.

"Pikey"

Born Sept. 17, 1899, Livermore Falls; Calais Academy; Rangeley High; Ramsdell Scientific, Secretary, 4; Petit Salon, 3, 4; Entre Nous; Seniority, 3, 4; Second Hockey Team, 3, 4; Honor Student.

"She wolde weep if that she sawe a mous caught in a trappe." "Sh, don't tell a soul." She's raising an orphaned family on a pipette. There are white ones, gray ones, brown ones, waltzing ones. Semper scientia! "Oh! Pikey, how could you!" Your smile is your most scientific possession. Just think of the yards of tissue ribbon it cut from the rotary microtome! It opens forbidden doors to you, kills your cats, feeds your mice, incubates your eggs, counts pendulums, mends distilling apparatus, and makes 100% alcohol. It even swerves "Pom" from his path, yet "Pikey" does not realize. She is smiling.

PAUL BARBER POTTER, B.S.

"George the First"

"She's abaout ready to pull aout."

Born Aug. 6, 1898, Griswold, Conn.; New Hampton Literary Institution; Class Track; Baseball; College Twilight League; Class Football; Glee Club, Reader, 1, 2, 3; MIRROR Board.

Artist, orator, musician, terpischorean, physicist! George is one of our most versatile performers; many an audience has been convulsed by his ready flowing wit on the Glee Club trips. He is a combination of epicurean, pessimist, and diligent student. But this college life is just play for George—his real work is as a salesman and he is an expert. Upon graduation it is rumored that he has a contract waiting for him to sell palm leaf fans to the Eskimos. We think he will get away with it.

CARLETON HOBART RAND, A.B.

Born June 15, 1898, Lewiston, Maine; Jordan High School.

Carleton is a little shy of Rand Hall activities, but do not put this down as due entirely to bashfulness. His very name signifies that he has as much right there as any other person. Carleton is another one of those fellows of whom we see very little on the campus except at classes. He is the shortest man in the class. His one real objection to this is that oftentimes he finds it necessary to strike out before breakfast to make connections with that seven-forty class. Never mind, Carleton, remember Napoleon.

GABRIELLE MARIE ROY, A.B.

"Gabby"

Born 1899, Lewiston, Me.; Jordan High School; Y. W. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Macfarlane; Junior Part; Senior Exhibition.

Out on David's mountain, quaint, bewitching Jeanne d'Arc, singing; and as the pines send back the sweetly appealing notes, there comes flashing the refrain. How graceful Gabby is, in her costumed folk dancing! How sweetly and yet vivaciously she has engineered Le Petit Salon this year! Whatever 1921 has demanded the response has always been the same. Never mind, Gabe, Connie did get "the shortest girl."

VERA BLANCHE SAFFORD, A.B.

Cony High School; Entre Nous; U. A. C. C.; Forum, 3, 4; La Petite Salon; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A.; Outing Club; Secretary of Entre Nous, 1; House President, 2; Vice-President of Athletic Board, 3; Chairman of Publicity Committee, Y. W. C. A., 3; Ivy Day Committee, 3; Secretary-Treasurer of Le Petit Salon, 4; Athletic Board, 4; Enkuklios Board, 4; Student Government Board, 4; Chairman of Girls' Committee for the Outing Club Carnival, 4; Fire Captain, 3, 4; Hockey, 1, 2, 3, 4; Volleyball, 1, 2, 3, Captain, 1, 2; Basketball, 2, 3, Second Team, 1; Baseball, 2, Second Team, 1.

Forgive our brevity, Saff, but look at that record! Jollity, good sportsmanship, gameness, good looks, cheery disposition and—there's just room enough to say "We're glad you came to live with us."

MELVILLE LEE SMALL, A.B.

Born Deer Isle, Maine, Oct. 29, 1894; Deer Isle High School, 1914; Military Science Club, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4, Secretary, 4; Board of Directors of Outing Club, 3, 4; Class Track, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 3, 4; Interclass Basketball, 3, 4; Business Manager for Greek Play.

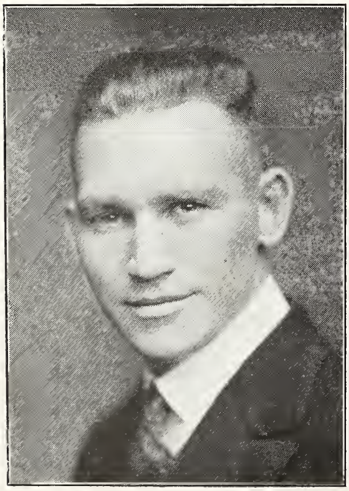
When we think of rock-ribbed isles and balmy sea breezes we always think of Mel, for we know that salty zephyrs and time enduring granite (the surroundings from which Mel came to us) are true symbols of vivacity, versatility and sterling worth, which qualities are all synonyms for the name Mel. He certainly made up admirably for the year that he spent away from us. In the sacred halls beneath the shelter of David's Mountain none have ever questioned his right of admittance "verboten" to its athletic contests.

MAURICE PRESTON SMITH, B.S.

"By Jeemins Cripes, what do you know—"

Born May 26, 1896, Meredith Center, New Hampshire; New Hampton Literary and Biblical Institute; Athletic Editor of Bates Student, 4; Member of Board of Directors of Bates Outing Club, 4; Y. M. C. A.

When "M. P." bursts forth in the above vernacular, rest assured that he has something beyond the realm of the commonplace to relate. He is of the open. Mention fishing and immediately he is "rearing-to-go." He, too, is a veritable walking census. In exactly two minutes, one and three-fifths seconds he can give the name and life history of the entire population of his home town. Maurice is an ardent supporter of all college athletics and backs them up to the Nth degree. Maurice is a perfect gentleman, and a good fellow well met.



OTHO FRANCIS SMITH, A.B.

Born 1897, Franklin, Me.; Franklin High School; Cercle Francais; Class Track, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Football, 4; Varsity Hockey, 4; "B"; entered with Class of 1919; Varsity Track, 4.

Did you ever stand in the front room of a cottage by the sea, with the wind blowing a gale outside, when someone opens the door and a gust of a sweeping nor'easter swirls in and around, and nearly knocks you over? Or did you ever stand behind some convenient shelter and recoil in the face of the explosion of a couple of tons of TNT? Or did you ever get upon the wrong side of your litter, and then be greeted by one that seems to lift you out of the depths of despair and perch you on the pinnacle of rosy optimism?—If not, you haven't met Kelly—our noisy, salty Kelly—as the Rotarians would say, "an exemplary peptomist."

STANLEY WARD SPRATT, A.B.

"Jack"

Born July 6, 1896, China, Me.; Woonsocket, R. I., High School; entered Bates Class of 1918; Spofford Club, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Cercle Francais, 2, 3, Vice-President, 3; Military Science, 2; Commons Committee, 4; Sophomore Prize Essay; Cheer Leader, 2, 3; Junior Exhibition; Senior Exhibition; Toastmaster Ivy Day; Captain Basketball, 4; Student board, 3; Ass't Math, 2; Varsity Baseball, 4; U. S. Army with A. E. F., A. of O., A. F. in G., 1917-19.

Jack's years and even his moments of college life may be characterized by one word, CONTRAST, so varied are his talents and his deeds. He is the Ace of Daredevils, an unexcelled student, athlete, actor, writer, artist extraordinary, and recognized by every student and professor as the best known and most popular man on or off the campus.

CHARLES MILLARD STARBIRD, A.B.

Born March 15, 1898, Auburn, Maine; Edward Little High; Student Council, 3, 4; Assistant Manager Baseball, 2; Forum, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Politics Club, 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Freshman Prize Speaking; Winner of Sophomore Prize Debate; Varsity Debating, 2, 3, 4; Debating Council, 2, 3, 4; Ivy Committee, 3; Junior Exhibition; Delta Sigma Rho; Honor Student; Class Day Speaker; Phi Beta Kappa.

Although not a campus man in the sense of place of abode, "Charlie" has made a place for himself in many a campus activity. Particularly does his name recall brilliant forensic triumphs over Harvard, Yale, Cornell, and all the rest. As executive of several clubs and as a campus citizen he has been a genuine hustler.

KENNETH RALPH STEADY, A.B.

"Ken"

"Orpheus with his lute made trees,
And the mountain tops that freeze
Bow themselves when he did sing."

Born Oct. 8, 1898, Berlin, N. H.; Berlin High School; band, 1, 2, 3, 4, Leader, 3, 4; Orchestra, 1, 3, 4, Leader, 3; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, Leader, 4; Choir, 1, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4, President, 4; Cercle Francais; Politics, 4; Journal Club, 2, 3, 4; Directors Board of Outing Club, 4; Assistant in Oratory, 4; Greek Play.

Ken, from the mountains of New Hampshire, brought with him all the harmonies of the hills in the various musical instruments which he plays so well. A good student, but he can always join in a song, play a game of billiards with George the First, or take a co-ed wherever she wants to go. Music hath its charms but we think he will make a good minister.

CHARLES LAURENCE STEVENS, B.S.

Born Nov. 6, 1899, Stoneham, Mass.; Mt. Hermon School, Northfield, Mass.; College Choir, 2, 3, 4; Sophomore Prize Debater; Sophomore Prize Speaker; Politics Club, 3, 4, President, 4; Secretary to Bates Publishing Association, 3; Mt. Hermon Club, 1, 2, 3, 4, President, 4; Vice-President of Debating Council, 4.

Charlie's record speaks for itself, even as did that never-to-be-forgotten faculty poker-game record, put on at one of Charlie's Chase Hall sprees. Movie operator, stenog, Politics Club prexy, whist expert, cook, warbler of songs, gobbler of Rand Hall fudge, choir steerer,—these are a few of this blond boy's doings. He is all set to meet life; that old smile, that optimism, that courtesy and thoughtfulness for others should pave the way for lasting friendships and success for Charlie, old boy.

RUTH STILES, A.B.

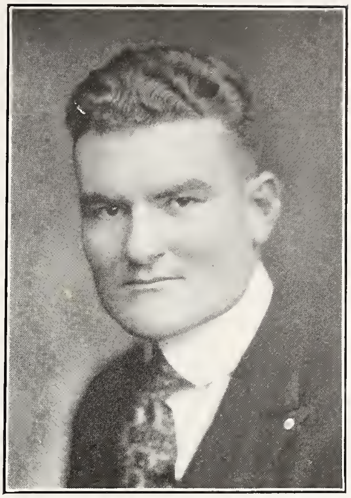
Born June 22, 1898, Louden, N. H.; Colby Academy; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; New Hampshire Club, 1, 2, 3, 4; Baseball, 1, 2; Soccer, 3; Second Team, Volley Ball, 4.

Rufus is a happy-go-lucky damsel who is always ready to help; it doesn't matter what you want, just ask her. And she's awf'ly good at having a good time, too. She's a rather breezy young miss and very decent when it comes to lending things. By the way, Rufus, your room is taking on a rather awful aspect since you've taken to playing double Canfield; but we've got to hand it to you when it comes to skiing, old scout—you're there.

MARIE STOEHR, A.B.

Born Sabattus, Maine, Sept. 28, 1899; Edward Little High; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Second Baseball, 1, 2.

We gaze at thee with awe and wonder. You are not the usual kind for a phenomenon of human nature. In spite of our glances, you are as unconscious as a celebrity before the movie camera. A whisper passes along the back seat in chapel. The Freshmen turn and stare. "The 6.30 car from Sabattus for four years and she's still smiling!" How soothing your voice was to Pa Gould's disturbed ears after our miserable failures. And would you believe it? She's the '21 girls' star first baseman.



JAMES EDWARD STONIER, B.S.

"Hunker," "Shot-put"

Born June 15, 1895, Boston, Mass.; Gardiner High School, Gardiner, Me.; Varsity Football, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; All-Maine Guard, 3, 4; Class Baseball; Cercle Francais; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Sixty-fifth Artillery, A. E. F.

Why is Maine famous? Spuds. One might at first say that, but any deliberation would reveal the real reason for the State's prestige—Gardiner. And how, you ask, does Gardiner qualify as the holder of this pre-eminence? The Sphinx answers, S-T-O-N-I-E-R! Essentially a mother of great athletes and good fellows, Gardiner combined all the virtues of her sons in one shining example, and sent to us Jim. She has every reason for her pride and so have we, because Jim's many-sided nature, his loyalty, generosity, perseverance and fight, has brought him fame.

ROLAND WILLIAM TAPLEY, B.S.

Born July 16, 1896, Lewiston, Maine; Jordan High School; Captain of Class Football, 3; Class Baseball, 1, 2; Chemistry Assistant, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4.

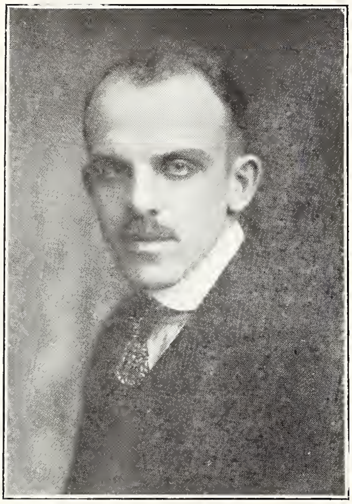
The door opens, "Hello, boys," and in glides "The Kid," one of the Lilliputian members of the class. Among a host of desirable characteristics his never-failing good nature is a most admirable quality. Wherever Cracker goes that contagious smile of his is sure to cast a beam of sunshine. Roland's specialty is chemistry. He is a most faithful disciple of Lavoisier, having risen to the position of assistant in Hedge Laboratory. In his Junior year he was the plucky little captain who made that thrilling end-run, tallying the only score which made us victorious over the Senior class.

HOWARD DEXTER TRUE, B.S.

"Obie"

Born Jan. 13, 1895, Madrid, Maine; Phillips High School; Prize Speaker, 1, 2; Cercle Francais, 3; Military Science Club, 2, 3, 4; Class Track, 3.

Orator, student, gentleman, good fellow—these are the attributes by which Obie has acquired for himself a foremost place in the regard of 1921. Those who do not know "Obie" might say that he is a pessimist. But such is not True for we know that his moments of apparent gloom are merely periods of longing for a time when he may return to his beloved home town of Phillips in the beautiful but far away Rangeley district of Maine. A gentleman in the fullest sense of the word, tasteful in dress, quiet in manner and courteous in speech, is it any wonder that the class of 1921 is proud to have him as a member?



EDWARD CHESLEY VARNEY, A.B.

"Eddie"

"Brother to a prince and fellow to a beggar if he be found worthy."

Born in August, 1895, Boston, Mass.; Neute High School, Milton, N. H.; Jordan Scientific Society, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 3, 4; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, 4.

A man whose middle name should be perseverance, for never has a fellow shown more persistence in realizing worth-while ideals. At college he has accomplished much, mentally, physically and socially. It is said that he can grow a mustache over night. Yes, he looks serious and is indeed quiet, yet he fools us all, for his earnest, solemn look masks a keen sense of humor which is the delight of all those who know him. An excellent student, a good mixer, and a true friend—that's Eddie.

CONSTANCE ANNA WALKER, A.B.

Born Oct. 11, 1898, Bridgton, Maine; Bridgton High; Spofford Club; Ramsdell Scientific Society; Alethea; Seniority; Y. W. C. A.; Mirror Board; Reporter for Bates Student; Bates Student Alumni Editor, 4; Proctor at Cheney House, 4; Junior Exhibition; Secretary-Treasurer for Spofford Club, 4; Second Team Hockey, 2.

When it comes to getting things across, you've got to hand it to Connie. Yes indeed, Connie's one of the Spoffordites and a very active member. And she's able to hold her own as an orator, knows how to manage an Alumnus column, shows an admirable regard for comparative size relations in judging men, has a safe and sane outlook on the senseless side of life—in short—yes, to be very brief—Connie is a Twenty-oner.

MARION ELIZABETH WARREN, A.B.

Born Durham, Me., Mar. 11, 1899; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Orchestra; Macfarlane Club, 3, 4; Manager Mandolin Club, 4; Assistant in Spanish and German, 4.

What is that merry little brook-like gurgle? Only Marian chuckling to herself with unfailing good humor. She can even smile while waiting for a Figure Eight. How we used to envy her German translations in the days of luxuriant verdure. But greatness has its responsibilities, for now she is correcting German papers. Marian may appear meek but ask Lieutenant Black if she can take a dare. Remember the night she blew taps first and made the S. A. T. C. bugler sound like a poor imitation of the real thing after her clear cornet notes?

MILLARD DUSTON WEBSTER, A.B.

Born in Berwick, Maine, April 4, 1894; Sullivan High School, Berwick, Maine, 1912; New Hampton Literary Institution, 1913; Treasurer Politics Club, 4; Varsity Club, 3, 4; Forum; College Choir, 2, 3; Glee Club, 3; Letter in Track, 3; Member of Junior Exhibition; Prize Speaking, 3; Class Day Speaker; Honor Student; Senior Exhibition.

"Daniel" M. Webster came to us in the middle of the year 1918. Married and matured, his attitude toward his college activities has been one of purposeful and resolute application. Along with a very creditable scholastic career he has, during his stay at Bates, ministered to the Baptist church in Woolwich, Maine. In athletics he looks down upon all comers, having won for Bates and the class of '21 his full share of interclass and collegiate honors. We wish him the success due his sincerity, helpfulness and earnest endeavors.

CLARICE WEYMOUTH, A.B.

Born Aug. 19, 1898, Freeman, Maine; Kingfield High; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 4; Student Government; Y. W. C. A.; Enkuklios; Le Petit Salon; Red Cross; Athletic Association; First Baseball, 1, 2; First Hockey, 2; Volleyball, 4; Second Basketball, 3, 4; Track, 3.

Do you want to do Spanish, play tennis, go to "Qual," or buy chocolate? Just go to Clarice, with a cheerful grin she will fulfil every demand. Do you want to see stars? Then get in her way when she is after that basketball and you will see them all. Sturdy and staunch, Clarice is one of the best "all-around" girls in our class. Y. W., athletics or society finds a willing worker in her. We know that you will earn your white cap with honors at Johns Hopkins, Clarice, and we only ask that you do not "treat 'em too rough."

NORMA VALERIE WHITING, A.B.

Born Auburn, Maine, April 19, 1898; Edward Little High; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet; Glee Club, 4; Enkuklios; Student Government Board; Track, 1, 2, 3, 4, Manager, 1, 2, 3, Captain, 3; Hockey First, 1, 3, 4, Second, 2; Volleyball Second, 3; Soccer, 3; MIRROR Board; Greek Play.

Here comes Norma, a white and gold and pink mixture of efficiency and good looks, striding gracefully toward Monie's English, as the last bell rings. Goff Hill is hard, Norma, but good experience withal, and the training did you much good in class athletics. We have our doubts as to anything being beyond your reach, and when it comes to putting things through, well, Norma, you're there.

MILDRED CLARK WIDBER, A.B.

"Mil"

Born Feb. 28, 1898; Portland High School; Enkuklios; Y. W. C. A., Treasurer, 4; Phil-Hellenic, Secretary-Treasurer, 2; Seniority; Althea; Portland Club; English Assistant, 3, 4; Red Cross, Secretary-Treasurer, 2.

"Oh, it's perfectly wonderful!" Look out! It's highly contagious! One long drink at the fountain of Mil's ever-bubbling enthusiasm is warranted to cure all blues, and to sustain one through any desert of Y. W. C. A. bazaars, or over a mountain of Sophomore forensics. Mil, the only specimen out of captivity that has gone through Bates on a schedule. Yet she never hesitated to break it to go on a hike or a spree.

CARLETON LOW WIGGIN, B.S.

Born July 29, 1897, Dover, N. H.; Sanford High School, Sanford, Me.; Varsity Football B, 1, 2, 3, 4; Varsity Baseball B, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain Baseball, 3, 4; Varsity Track, 3, 4, B, 3; Varsity Hockey, B, 3, 4; Interclass Basketball; Student Council, 1, 2, 4, President, 4; Jordan Scientific Society; Military Science Club; Varsity Club; Mandolin Club, 3; Class Chaplain, 2; Class Marshal, 4.

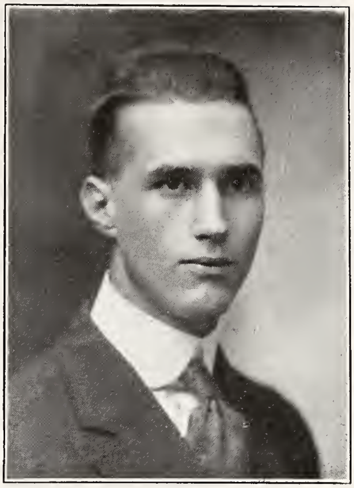
Yea, Wig! For the benefit of those who so much as never glance at the papers, evince not the slightest interest in athletics, we beg to present for their acquaintance, Carleton Low Wiggin, athlete par excellence, student par greater excellence and good fellow by greatest excellence. Judging by his versatility in four years of college activities, "Wig" has nothing to fear from the gentler sex or the cold, cruel world.

DONALD GORDON WIGHT, B.S.

"Don"

Born Nov. 6, 1896, Bolster's Mills, Maine; South Paris High School; Class Marshal, 2; Jordan Scientific Society, 4; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Jordan Scientific Society Exhibition Committee, 4; Member Board of Directors, Bates Outing Club, 4; Class Track, 3, 4; Class Football, 3; Varsity Track, 3; American Expeditionary Forces, 26th Division, 101st U. S. Engineers; Mirror Board.

Here is an all-round man of 1921. When speaking of his relations with the opposite side of College Street he is rather reticent. As his record may infer, "Don" is quite a scientist and as such it is not strange that he has the aforesaid characteristics. In addition to all this, he finds time not only to attain a very high average in ranks but also time to get the best out of life.



LOYS ARTHUR WILES, A.B.

Born Averill, Vermont, Nov. 1, 1898; Groveton High School, Groveton, N. H.; Editor-in-Chief, Bates Student; Secretary Debating Council; Phil-Hellenic Club; Politics Club, 3, 4; Forum, 3, 4; Sophomore Prize Debater; Phi Beta Kappa; Honor Student.

This son of New Hampshire who entered with us in 1917 was so extremely quiet that we hardly knew him until some of his exploits leaked out. Loys is undoubtedly one of our best students, having received the Phi Kappa honor which honor we all envy him. Although rather modest he is indeed a real live wire. As editor-in-chief of the Bates Student he made a name for himself by showing his efficiency as a business man. Still waters run deep, therefore perhaps this will assist those who wish to know him better.

DONALD KENNETH WOODARD, B.S.

Born Colebrook, N. H., Feb. 28, 1897; New Bedford High School; Class Marshal, 1, 3; Commons Committee, 1; Student Council, 1, 2; Secretary Y. M. C. A., 2; President Macfarlane Club, 2; College Orchestra and Band; Military Science Club, 2; Glee Club, 2; Varsity Tennis, 1, 2, 3, 4, Captain, 4; Class Hockey, 2; Class Football, 3; Class Track, 1, 2; Winner of Freshman Tennis Tournament; Assistant in Mathematics, 2, 3; Assistant in Physics and Geology, 4; Honor Student; Phi Beta Kappa.

"Don" was one of the first to come into prominence in our class by winning the Freshman Tennis Tournament. When we notice the honors he has won and the assistantships held we know that Bates will miss this member of our class and the community into which he goes will receive a worker.

ROBERT ISAAC WOODBURY, B.S.

"Bob"

Born in Topsfield, Mass., Sept. 16, 1898; Danvers High School, Mass.; Leader Mandolin Club, 4; Assistant Manager Track, 3; Military Science Club, 3, 4; Class Baseball, 1; Football, 3; Hockey, 2, 3, 4; Captain Class Track, 2, 3; Ivy Day Speaker; Glee Club, 1, 3, 4; Student Board, 3; Varsity Baseball, 3; Greek Play.

Bob is a bona fide member of the class, having been one of its number through four happy years. As an athlete he has served his class in every department. As a producer of jazz music he is unexcelled. His services are sought far and near. Withal, he has found time to be a good fellow on both sides of the campus. Bob is a hard worker, otherwise he would not be a true '21 man. We will always remember him as a ready sport, a live wire and a good friend.

EVELYN HENRIETTA YEATON, A.B.

Born Richmond, Maine, March 24, 1899; Richmond High; Y W. C. A.; Enkuklios.

Here comes Evelyn, tripping lightly along from the library. Yes, she works hours over there, and is always cheerful and smiling when you see her, too. How do you do it, Evelyn, always so happy and satisfied? By the way, who is that with her? One of the Bukers; doubtless she knows which one, though it hasn"t always been so doubtless, we have heard. Evelyn is quiet but not silent. You don't know the difference? Well, come into Fran's room some evening and find out.

CARL RICHARD YOUNG, A.B.

"Youngie"

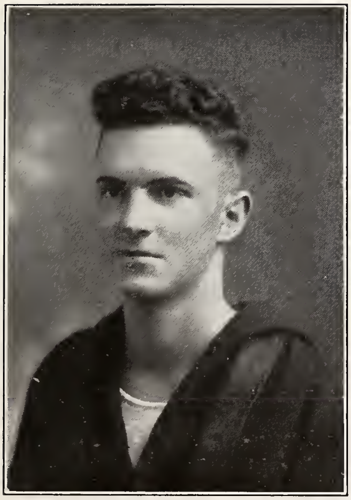
Born in Lewiston, Maine, Dec. 14, 1899; Jordan High School, Lewiston, Maine; Sophomore Prize Debate; Forum, 3; Debating Council, 4.

Here we have Carl Young; we haven't much on this boy. A man of few words unless discussing some favorite topic, then a steady flow of logical argument. It seems to be second nature for him to use his persuasive powers. That he does not spend his time uselessly is evident from the fact that he is always busily occupied when on the campus. He is an ardent pursuer of "Monie's" English and Prof. "Mac's" Education. It seems to be the idea of some that to be a big man it is necessary to be a great athlete of one kind or another. However, we are sure that "Youngie" will make up for this accomplishment by winning renown through knowledge of other things. Although Carl has not lived with us on the campus, those who know him think he is as cordial and genial a friend as one could wish to meet.

DANIEL BRACKETT NEWCOMER

Born Evart, Michigan, Aug. 18, 1898; attended High School, Harpers Ferry, W. Vir; left Bates November, 1918; served in Aviation Corps, San Antonio, Texas; died Feb. 1, 1918.

"Danny" was with us only a year, but most of us knew him and loved him for his sunny disposition, his big, fine, manly ways, and his true Southern courtesy. He was big in mind as well as in body, a good student, an earnest Christian, and a real gentleman. He left us early in his second year to serve his country, and before another year had passed he left us for his final home. It is a matter of grief and pride to the class that Dan Newcomer of '21 died for his country.



FRANK JOSEPH DORNER

On the death of Frank Dorner, the Class of 1921 lost one of its most enthusiastic and popular members. From the time that he entered college he was known all over the campus for his bounding good-nature and "pep." His ready smile and helping hand won him friends universally. No party on either side of the campus was complete without him. In the summer of 1918 Frank enlisted in the Naval Reserve and was on active duty until he returned to Bates to grace the ranks of our quota of that branch of service. His experience together with his enthusiasm and good nature made him one of our most efficient "non-coms." The whole class, the whole college, mourned his untimely death, and now cherish the memory of him, a student, a classmate, and a friend.

1923

We, the Class of '23, have completed our second year at Bates, a year of many changes, of many lessons learned, but withal a year of broader friendships and closer comradeship.

We came to Bates in the fall of 1919 as the largest class ever entered, not only in numbers but also in enthusiasm. Our propensities for getting into water, both hot and cold, have never been equalled. Those members who felt the soothing waters of Lake Andrews early determined to instill the same calm of the watery wave upon the next class.

Our spirit has increased, but our number has been sadly depleted due to matrimony and other failings. We began our Sophomore year by trying to carry out a new program for initiating the Freshmen. Athletic contests and prescribed initiations were substituted for the usual hazing. Although we felt the loss of those who were compelled to take up other work, those who remained won the Interclass Track Meet last fall. With the girls' help the boys also won first place in the Outing Club Carnival, not to mention a few B's in Pa Gould's history course.

We look back over the last two years seeing our failures and successes. We look forward to the next two years with an earnest purpose to make the most of ourselves here, that we may honor Bates when we leave her halls to serve in the greater work outside.

THE CLASS of 1924
IS VERY proud
OF THE "Grand Old Man"
WHO'S IN our big class picture—
THE "GRAND Old Man"
WHO HAS passed on . . . . .
AND WE ARE also proud
TO BE THE largest class
THAT EVER entered Bates.
WE THINK we're good, in FACT, WE know we are.
EVER SINCE that Y. M.
RECEPTION, where "I was"
AND "You were"
TO THIS glorious day,
WHEN WE become Sophs,
WE THINK we've conducted ourselves
WITH THE modesty
BECOMING to verdant Freshmen.
AND WE'VE had some fine times—
THAT JAZZY Class Ride
WHERE INCIPIENT twosomes acted
ACCORDING to Hoyle.
AND THEN our Class Party
WITH MORE twosomes
AND ENTERTAINERS that put
AL JOLSON off the map.
AND YOU must admit
THAT OUR class is an example
OF THE SURVIVAL of the fittest.
AND WE select few that
REMAIN TO grace old '24
DO HUMBLY acknowledge with GRATEFUL hearts
THE INSPIRATION and guidance
OF THE staid old Seniors
WHO ARE now "rolling on."

SOCIETY

Jordan Scientific Society

Officers

President, Robert Jordan, '21

Vice-President, Winslow S. Anderson, '21

Executive Committee, Maynard S. Johnson, '21, Chairman

Jordan Scientific Society, founded in 1910, has progressed until its position among Bates' clubs is enviable. The purpose of the society, as stated in the preamble of its constitution, is "to promote and further interest in science; to inspire the spirit of research; and to increase the scope of college instruction." Membership is limited to thirteen Seniors and five Juniors, and every applicant must present high recommendations from the heads of science departments.

At the bi-monthly meetings, members present papers on subjects in which they are particularly interested. Often the speakers obtain first-hand information by working during their vacations in factories and laboratories. For the past year, many papers have dealt with the industrial application of scientific principles to commercial enterprises. At one open meeting, Mr. L. B. Costello pointed out the aid that science has given to rapid communication in Gathering the News. In addition to open meetings, it is the policy of the society to present occasional educational motion pictures.

The annual scientific exhibition which is held every year, offers a very unique and entertaining method of demonstrating in striking fashion the highly advanced course of science at Bates. One night of this is devoted to preparatory school pupils, and is attended by delegations from all over the state. Carnegie is peopled with competent guides to demonstrate anything from the dissection of a cat to the effect of radium or X-ray.

The society must always be deeply indebted to our late Dr. Jordan, its beloved founder and sponsor.

Spofford Literary Club

Officers

President, STANLEY W. SPRATT, '21
Vice-President, MARGUERITE HILL, '21
Secretary and Treasurer, CONSTANCE WALKER, '21

Spofford Club, organized in 1910 under leadership of Prof. Spofford for whom it was named, is unique among Bates clubs for the sustained interest which makes possible its weekly meetings. For more satisfactory criticism, the number of members is limited to fifteen, chosen from the three upper classes for originality and excellence in some branch of writing.

The regular programs never become monotonous—there are short stories, vers libre and verse otherwise, dramas, essays, formal and personal, and even scenarios and musical comedy. A few titles are suggestive of the work: Leaves, The Diary of a Man Who Is Losing His Mind; Scene in the Rialto of Edgewater; Femininity; Just a Group of Old Maids; Smoke Rings; Hey Gus!; Semper Scientia; Marya, Song of the Lost One; You Tell Us, Ouija; Librarian's Day; Squire's Husking; They That Walk in Darkness; Basket of Chrysanthemums; The Sun; A String of Pearls.

Occasionally a semi-social meeting is substituted, as when last fall a camp supper was held by the river, where each member presented a bit of original work. A part of the yearly work is Spofford Night, late in May, when through the medium of dramas, interspersed with the reading of a story or poem or two, the club tries to give the college and its friends an idea of its work as well as genuine entertainment.

Not only to Prof. Spofford, its founder, but also to Prof. Baird, its faculty member, the club acknowledges much.

Politics Club

Officers

President, CHARLES L. STEVENS, '21
Vice-President, CHARLES M. STARBIRD, '21
Secretary, MELVILLE L. SMALL, '21
Treasurer, MILLARD D. WEBSTER, '21

The purpose of the Politics Club as set forth in its constitution is, in short, "to provide an opportunity for the discussion of economic problems and to investigate social and political problems of the present day." The Society was founded in 1912 by the backing of Professor Gould. Its membership is limited to twenty men from the two upper classes, and its regular meetings are held every other week.

This year the club has had more open meetings than ever before in its history. In these open meetings the club has brought to the campus such men as Baron Korff, who spoke on the Russian situation, and Hon. R. A. McCauley, presidential candidate on the Single Tax ticket last election. The club has put on two debates, the first on the merits of the two presidential candidates, and the last debate between Dr. Harry W. Laidler, secretary of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, and Prof. Carroll, on socialism, which was a chance to get a thorough understanding of this important current problem. The other meetings of the club are varied with talks by club members and by some of our own faculty. In addition to its regular work, is the annual ladies' night and the club banquet, which has proved a great success.

Military Science

Officers

President, Carl W. Belmore
Vice-President, Harry C. McKenney
Secretary-Treasurer, Melville L. Small

The Military Science is one of the most active societies on the Campus. Its primary object, as the name implies, is a thorough study of military science in all of its phases. Many very interesting talks are given by members, especially those who have taken active part in the World War, and in this way the application of the theory is well illustrated. The society is becoming more and more popular every year. At present it consists of twenty-six active members.

For the great success with which it has met the society is indebted to Dr. Tubbs. It was he who organized the society and his interest in its welfare is becoming greater from year to year. At present he is delivering a series of lectures on the World War, starting from the first battle and explaining the military importance of each battle. He is constantly in search of the truth about military affairs and is always eager to impart his knowledge to the society.

Phil-Hellenic

Officers

President, Morley Johnson Durost, '21
Vice-President, Izetta Lidstone, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, Florence Lindquist, '21

Phil-Hellenic is one of the livest clubs on the campus, but because of the scarcity of open meetings is not so well known as some of the others. All the members, however, are enthusiastic about the work that is done. The main purpose of the society is two-fold: to keep alive an interest in the classics, and to further an understanding of the social attitude and conditions of modern Greeks in America. To assist in carrying out the first aim, a lecturer from Athens was secured to give an illustrated lecture on Greece, and to promote intimacy and mutual understanding between the college folk and the Greeks of Lewiston the annual reception was held with unusual success. The activities of the club are manifold. Other speakers have been secured this year, among whom were Dr. Tubbs, who lectured on What the Greeks Have Given to Astronomy, and a local man, Mr. Petropolis, who spoke on his first experiences in America. The club will carry through their successful line of endeavor with their annual Symposium late in the spring.

Enkuklios

Officers

President, Edna Merrill, '21
Vice-President, Florence Fernald, '22
Secretary, Emma Abbott, '23
Treasurer, Ruth Fisher, '21

Since 1915, we have been acknowledging many of our good times to Enkuklios; possibly because its membership includes all the girls accounts for the fact that its social occasions are so particularly successful. Its purpose is broadening every year, and in addition to its first endeavor of furnishing social diversions, it now has taken upon itself the proper introduction of the new students to college life.

First in the fall came the Freshman initiation party which far surpassed its principal aim by furnishing an evening of unusual fun and jollity. A bit later was an informal tea to the faculty ladies by the Juniors and Seniors which was an excellent opportunity for getting acquainted. Then was the informal party in the Gym, and on Washington's birthday the annual reception, to which friends and relatives are invited. Later, in June, there will be an outdoor party.

A large place, then, Enkuklios fills in our "mem" books and we're not likely to forget it.

Seniority

Officers

President, Ada Bonney, '21
Vice-President, Ernestine Philbrook, '21
Secretary and Treasurer, Lillian Dunlap, '21

On the second and fourth Thursdays of every month, Fiske room belongs to the Seniority, which seldom finds reason to omit any of its meetings. This society aims "to promote literary taste and ability" through the reading and criticism of various works and once in a while an original production. Membership depends upon rank in English courses, and the past year has taken in those Seniors who have maintained a straight B, and five Juniors, chosen to carry on the society.

Among the various authors whose lives and works have been discussed are Emerson and James Whitcomb Riley, and among modern plays that of John Drinkwater's Abraham Lincoln. There has been one open meeting, a Contest of Wits, which proved to be original and entertaining. The Kleptomaniac was very successfully presented to the college on the same evening as Alethea's offering.

This society has a genuine place to fill and is certain to continue as one of the most important of the girls' organizations.

Alethea

Officers

President, Katharine E. O'Brien, '22
Vice-President, Elizabeth H. Files, '23
Secretary-Treasurer, Doris E. Hooper, '22

Alethea, the reorganized form of U. A. C. C., founded in 1914, is composed of Junior and Sophomore girls interested in literature, music, and art. Programs have been given this year on many phases of work, including such subjects as War Poetry, American Contemporary Drama, and Telling Stories to Children. In the line of dramatics, Alethea has successfully produced at Hathorn Hall a one-act farce entitled Just a Little Mistake, combining with the play of Seniority to make an "Evening of Fun." The purpose of the club is broad enough to give play to the particular capacities of the members, and dances, readings and musical selections have been enjoyed at the meetings. One meeting has been given over entirely to original literary work. While the scope of the club is thus large and unrestricted, its work has been enjoyable and efficient.

Le Petit Salon

Officers

President, Gabrielle Roy, '21
Vice-President, Grace Gould, '22
Secretary, Vera Safford, '21
Treasurer, Vivian Wills, '22

"Le Petit Salon," founded in 1917, is composed of those students who are especially interested in the study of the French language. Its object is to promote a greater enthusiasm for French literature and for France. The meetings are held bi-monthly; they take the form of a literary and social gathering. Each year the members try to present a French play before the whole college and, thus far, they have been very successful. The membership is limited to thirty-five and each one has to take an active part in its program during the year. The interest in the meetings is keen, and the club keeps alive its ambitious progress by means of pertinent discussions. Originality is encouraged, and variety is the keynote of the society's success.

Ramsdell Scientific Society

Officers

President, Caroline T. Jordan, '21
Vice-President, G. Hazel Luce, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, Arlene H. Pike, '21

Many of the Juniors and Seniors of 1919 and 1920 spent every spare moment enveloped in laboratory coats, and their devotion to science was so great that they felt they should have some opportunity to meet and discuss the latest developments of their particular branch of science. During its first year, Professor Ramsdell, the sponsor of the society, talked in such an interesting manner concerning the fourth dimension that he was asked to repeat the lecture in 1921. The membership consists of fifteen from the two upper classes upon faculty recommendation in two or more branches of science or two consecutive recommendations in the same department. Those represented are Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Mathematics, and Forestry.

Every first and third Thursday evening, the traditions of Bates are broken and Carnegie Science Hall is invaded by the girls. One of the most helpful lectures so far this year was Photography by Dr. Whitehorne, who brought much tangible evidence of his qualifications to speak on the subject. Some recent uses of selenium, especially in radio-photography, notes on the metric system, the relation of Genesis I to science, are a few subjects of the characteristic papers presented by members of the society. Much discussion has taken place concerning conferring the B.S. degree to the women of Bates College.

Trips to the Turner Center Creamery, Huston Bakery, and the Bates Manufacturing Company are being arranged for the spring.

Macfarlane Club

Officers

President, KENNETH R. STEADY, '21

Vice-President, EDNA MERRILL, '21

Secretary and Treasurer, RACHEL KNAPP, '21

Macfarlane Club is one of the youngest musical clubs on the campus. Four years ago this spring several students undertook the founding of a club to create a love and appreciation for good music and its cultural and æsthetic values. The club was named after Mr. Will C. Macfarlane, former Municipal Organist of Portland, Maine.

At first the membership was limited to twelve active members and five honorary members, including Mr. Macfarlane himself. Since then, however, it has been increased to twenty-four.

In the semi-monthly meetings both honorary and active members participate. Papers and biographies of the leading composers, discussions of the technical and scientific phases of the art, and individual renderings, vocal and instrumental, are features of the work.

Outing Club

Officers

President, ALMON E. DEAN, '21
Vice-President, RUSSELL TAYLOR, '22
Secretary, CHARLES PETERSON, '21
Faculty Adviser and Treasurer, R. A. F. MCDONALD

The college year 1920-1921 has been one of marked development for the Outing Club. The club has had snowshoes, skiis, and toboggans for the use of its members, although unfortunately the mildness of the winter has made it impossible to use the equipment as much as would otherwise have been the case. All winter, the club has kept the ice on Lake Andrews clear of snow in order that the student body might have an opportunity to skate.

The Carnival was the crowning event of the winter season. It occupied three days—Feb. 24, 25, and 26—and was a most successful affair, showing a marked improvement over the first season's carnival. The snowshoeing, skiing, and skating stunts, the hockey game followed by a general skate, and the culmination in the Carnival Masquerade, are incidents long to be remembered.

The entire season's activities of the club have been highly successful, and the possibilities for future improvement are unlimited. It is the ambition of the organization to make Bates known for its Outing Club and winter sports.

Bates Forum

Officers

President, CHARLES M. STARBIRD, '21
Vice-President, ROBERT B. WATTS, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, GLADYS F. HALL, '21

In 1919, a new organization, the Bates Forum, came into existence on the campus, conceived in the freedom of speech, and dedicated to the proposition that both men and women of Bates should have a chance to express their opinions on current subjects and discuss them freely.

Since that time, the Forum has steadily expanded and increased its effectiveness in the line of work which it planned. Those students who have given evidence of unusual ability in debating have become members. Constant efforts have been made through bi-monthly meetings to understand more fully the various forces working in the society in which we live. There has also been time for the consideration of Bates' debating achievements. No account of the Forum's activities would be complete without mentioning the History of Bates' Debating, prepared by one of its members. Not only unique and unusual was this work but one of lasting value. Professor Carroll has entertained the society with various accounts of the Log Cabin Period of forensic achievements at Bates. Indeed, all that pertains to debating has been considered.

As for the future, it is hoped that the scope of work may be broadened and that the Forum may become not only the radiating center for enthusiastic support for debating, but may be the most worth while organization on the campus.

This year the girls' musical clubs have worked under great difficulties, for it has been unusually hard to find necessary time for rehearsals, but they have come through in fine fashion, surpassing anything that has hitherto been accomplished by their organizations.

Together they have already given one concert out of town and are arranging a program to give others on a trip to various places in the vicinity of the college.

Much credit is due to the faithful work of the leaders and particularly to the help and direction of Mr. Goss, the director of the choir, who gives personal attention to the work of the clubs.

If the work of the organizations is carried on with the spirit of this year, we predict an increasingly successful future.

Librarian, CHARLES STEVENS, '21

The Bates College Choir renders valuable service and is appreciated by the student body. It furnishes music for the daily meetings in chapel and also for vesper and other religious services held throughout the year. Much credit for the success of the organization belongs to the helpful efforts of Mr. Goss, its musical director, for by means of his exceptional ability this group of non-professional singers has been accomplishing extraordinary results.

The citizens of Lewiston are also keenly appreciative of the college choir and throng the chapel to hear the cantatas given in different years. This year the cantata was Steiner's Crucifixion and was perhaps the best ever offered.

It is the opinion of the student body that the college choir holds a foremost place among the organizations of the college.

Glee Club Leader, Kenneth Steady, '21

Mandolin Club Leader, Robert Woodbury, '21

The Bates Glee and Mandolin Clubs under the respective leaderships of Mr. Kenneth Steady and Mr. Robert Woodbury, enjoyed one of the most successful seasons in the history of these combined organizations. Mr. Elwood Ireland, the manager, planned a trip which included Roxbury, Hingham, Woburn, Topsfield, and with the closing concert at Portland. Good-sized audiences greeted the men at each of these concerts, and the success of the trip may be seen from the fact that return concerts were asked for in more than one of these cities.

The concert program was well up to the standard set in former years; by many it was thought to surpass anything ever put on heretofore. Mr. George Duncan and Mr. Carl Rounds, the readers, scored emphatically at every performance; Mr. Maynard Moulton, the demon xylophone artist, was a scintillant solo star; the glee club was as much a success as ever; the mandolin club strummed its way into the hearts of the feminine portion of each audience; without a hitch the entire program was a smooth-working unit from initial chord to final note of the Alma Mater. The final concert in Lewiston gave the student body a chance to hear the clubs, and a gratifying number turned out. This last appearance of the season was under the patronage of the local Bates Alumni Club, and was marked by an innovation, in that the women of the college were permitted to remain at the dance following the program.

The Student Council consists of four Seniors, three Juniors, two Sophomores, and one Freshman—elected the latter part of the year. Its work is both arbitrary and executive in nature. Full power for dealing summarily and effectively with cases warranting severe treatment is invested in the Student Council by the college authorities. Acting upon the supposition that the Council is thoroughly representative of the four classes, its authority extends not only over cases concerning Freshmen and Sophomores but over cases involving Juniors and Seniors as well.

At the beginning of this college year a week known as the Freshman Initiation Period was successfully staged. The program consisted of various athletic events between the two classes involving physical contact of no uncertain type. The week ended up with a banquet attended by the Freshmen and Sophomores and the members of the Student Council. Time alone is needed to develop and perfect a system whereby the old Sophomore-versus-Freshman instinct will be thoroughly satisfied in no tame and toneless manner but without the oftentimes harmful results caused by the thoughtless hazing of the past.

The Student Council has had the whole-hearted coöperation of the college faculty and student body throughout the entire year.

Student Government

Officers

President, LAURA HERRICK, '21
Vice-President, RUTH HANSON, '22
Secretary-Treasurer, ELIZABETH LITTLE, '22

Dissatisfaction with the present regime and Miss Niles' faith in the girls as illustrated by their faithfulness in carrying out training rules for the various teams, led to a very beneficial change in the organization of Student Government. After many months of hard work and numberless investigations of the organizations of other colleges, Miss Buswell and Miss Niles submitted the results of their tasks to President Gray and a committee of the student body. The plan was perfected by these individuals and enthusiastically accepted by the girls.

On the 8th of March, 1921, Student Government went into effect with Miss Niles and Mrs. Pomeroy as their very efficient faculty advisors, and since that time has solved the problems of noisy halls and more serious infractions. Incidentally this has done away with many of the old-time needless rules.

Student Government has a most enthusiastic backing from the girls, and all feel certain that this is an organization which will become a permanent part of Bates College.

The scope of the Debating Council is wholly business. Not only does it arrange the intercollegiate contests, but it determines the college debating policy and manages interscholastic debates.

During the present year the Council arranged and carried on the intercollegiate debates with Yale and Harvard Universities and attempted to secure a debate with the University of Pennsylvania. In interscholastic debating the Council has made the year the most successful in the College's history. From a triple-triangular league of nine schools, the league was developed into a combination of forty-five schools including the largest schools in Maine. By promoting debating in our secondary schools, Bates brings to the college many able debaters who become upholders of Bates' forensic record.

The work of the Council is heavy, and its opportunity for service to the college in maintaining the famous Bates record of thirty-nine victories in fifty forensic contests, is unlimited.

The Y. M. C. A. this year has been attempting as always to serve the men on the campus in its usual channels of helpfulness. In the fall the annual membership campaign was held, and a great majority of the Freshmen enrolled either as active or associate members. The customary voluntary study groups were started soon after the opening of college with a large enrollment from all of the classes. An unusual amount of interest, due in large part to the hearty coöperation of the faculty leaders, was evidenced by the regular attendance at the weekly meetings, which lasted until the Christmas recess.

Plans are now under way for a series of Association meetings on the subject of The Better Citizenship. Various types of leaders will be secured for these meetings—all representative men in their own lines, such as judges, lawyers, state legislators, doctors, ministers, industrial workers, and newspaper editors. It is also hoped that a forum lecture and discussion course can be arranged on topics relating to America's attitude toward the Far East question. This course will be open to all men of the college, and will meet in Chase Hall Monday evenings for an hour after supper under the leadership of different capable men.

Early in 1921 an institute in "Practical Evangelism" was held for two days in Chase Hall by Dr. Henry Wright of Yale, and representatives from Bowdoin, Colby, and Bates were fortunate to be present at the five lectures of this institute.

Wednesday nights come clean sheets, ice-cream, and Y. W. This most vital organization for the purpose of leading people to Christ was reorganized this year on the new basis of personal pledges instead of former church membership, and has an enrollment of one hundred and sixty active members.

Attendance has been very high this year, and the range of the meetings has been very broad. Tableaux were given to express the work of the various departments of the Cabinet. Miss Mabel Googins spoke of her work in Syria to help instill the spirit of Christ. There have been Maqua rallies with the characteristic songs, industrial meetings, New Year resolutions, January clearance sales, and talks by Dr. Tubbs. Who that attended the Y. W. C. A. circus and heard the wild man roar and ate of the faculty food at the Y. W. Bazaar can forget the Y. W. C. A.? Our success in coöperating with the city association is helping the work of Americanization by teaching every night, classes of French, Greek, and Lithuanian industrial girls, by presenting musicales for their entertainment, and by learning from them the heart of old world culture. At the Old Ladies' Home a song service is held every Sunday afternoon; girl reserves are being trained as leaders; foreign work has been generously contributed to—in short, the work of the Y. W. is worth-while.

For the year 1920-1921, this committee has not only made a financial success and has received practically no complaints on the food but has also charged lower board than any other college in New England. These achievements have been due in large part to Professor Gould, who has given unsparingly of his time and advice. Mrs. Hilton is not only an efficient buyer and a snappy, energetic manager, but has won the love and good-will of all the boys, who have given her the beloved title of "Mother Hilton." The work of Mrs. Stevens is also highly commendable.

This loyal, enterprising group has been very zealous in their efforts to maintain the highest possible attendance at the Commons and thus reduce overhead expenses to a minimum. All complaints have been thoroughly and cheerfully investigated, and efforts made to make the suggested changes and readjustments.

It is only by a whole-souled support of this college function that such satisfactory results have been obtained.

The Bates Student is the only real students' paper on the campus, and as such, is the only medium of expression that is open to the entire college. Edited weekly throughout the college year, it is awaited by every student as the only means of keeping up with all branches of college activities, and in the end, cut up and fitted in, its news columns find their way into the "Mem" books which are packed away after four years but are invariably brought out again more times than we care to admit. Of course, the alumni column has now been dropped in favor of the new Alumnus, which covers the ground much more satisfactorily, since it has more space and can be edited for one type of subscribers only.

For the year 1920, the paper was managed and edited by members of 1921, and from a financial and editorial viewpoint, their work has been successful. The paper has changed somewhat from its form in previous years. A local column of jokes and pertinent anecdotes was introduced, which made a decided hit with the student body at least. The magazine department was carried on with its monthly publications; and though its readers were not so many as the weekly, nevertheless it is felt by many that it fulfils the purpose of encouraging and presenting the literary interests of the college.

The class of 1921 wishes to thank the college and outside friends for the support they have received in this enterprise.

This year's MIRROR management was a departure from the plan of former Boards, and, we believe, a distinct step in advance for the production of the most economical and most satisfactory college annual. Instead of an editor-in-chief with his board of subordinate workers such as we have had in previous years, our organization this year was made up of coördinated editors, each supreme in his own department and in absolute charge of his committee of sub-editors. From their own number of five, the Board elected a chairman for purposes of occasional conferences where policies of the various departments were discussed. If, however, a disagreement on any point should have arisen, though in this year's management this was not necessary, the question was to be submitted before a class meeting for the vote of the entire group. In this way, the class has felt more than ever before that in this check which it held, it has kept its "finger in the pie," and that both the great amount of work on the office of editor-in-chief but also an undue authority on the part of one man, has been by this means obviated.

With the issue of 1917, the MIRROR became not a class book as it had been in previous years, but a college annual, representing more or less fully the activities and interests of the entire college. Although its production each year must mean not only a fairly large sum of money but also much time and labor on the part of not a few of the board members, we feel that it fills a very definte place in our lives as undergraduates, and later on, as alumni.

'Varsity Debating

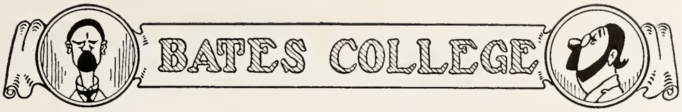
Debate with Oxford

The President of the Oxford Debating Union asks Bates to meet her in debate at Oxford Union the 16th of June. This is the first international college debate. The question: This House approves the American policy of non-intervention in European affairs. The team: Robert B. Watts, '21, Charles M. Starbird, '21, and Edward A. Morris, '21.

Bates 3; Harvard 0; January 15, 1921
Bates vs. University of Pennsylvania, Feb. 19, 1921



Intercollegiate Debating

The year 1920-1921 has been a most successful one for Bates debating teams. With victories over Cornell and Harvard during 1919-1920, as an impetus, the Debating Council drew up a program which was even harder for 1920-1921. Yale and Harvard were secured as opponents, and both were defeated by unanimous decisions.

The Yale debate came December 11th on the question—Resolved: That the A. B. C. powers should be invited by the United States to coöperate in the establishment of a joint protectorate over Haiti. The Bates team, which upheld the negative, was composed of William E. Young '24, Charles M. Starbird '21, and Robert B. Watts '22. So marked was the superiority of the Bates men over their opponents, that the audience fully expected the unanimous decision for the negative, which the judges rendered.

The Harvard debate came January 15th on the question—Resolved: That the government should own and operate the coal mines. Again Bates upheld the negative and again received the unanimous decision of the judges. The winning team consisted of Edward A. Morris '21, Aurie I. Johnson '22, and Robert B. Watts '22.

These most recent victories make the Bates record even more unusual. At present Bates teams have participated in fifty intercollegiate contests, and have won thirty-nine of these arguments. That she is capable of meeting teams from far larger institutions, is shown most conclusively by the past two years' records.

A third debate was arranged for February 19th with the University of Pennsylvania on the coal mine question. The same team which won from Harvard was to have debated Pennsylvania, but the latter—on hearing of the victory over Harvard—refused to carry out their agreement to debate. Princeton also agreed to debate, but was unwilling to do so under the usual conditions—insisting that twenty-four hours' preparation by both teams was the only way she could debate. Numerous other colleges and universities have challenged Bates during the year, including Boston College, Holy Cross, Boston University, and Georgetown.

Aside from conducting these intercollegiate contests, the Council arranged for debates between some thirty high schools and academies throughout the State. These schools were arranged into triangles and the first contests held in March. The nine schools which won in the first contests were invited to come to the college and on April 15th, these schools met in the semi-finals and finals of the high school league. Foxcroft Academy finally won, and thereby has possession of the Bates Debating League Cup for one year. This work of the Council aroused much interest in debating in the schools, and the finals brought many possible prospective students to the Campus as guests of the College and Council.

Already the Council is formulating a program for next year which promises to be as aggressive as that of this year. We lose two fine debaters in Morris and Starbird of the Class of 1921. The three remaining veterans, however, will form the backbone of a strong combination for next year which will be capable of upholding the fine traditions of the college in the field of debate.

1921 Senior Exhibition

Nearly every part in the exhibition was suggestive of our modern Americanism and the effect it is having on the colleges of to-day. The prize was given to Edward A. Morris, whose subject was America and Internationalism. Norma Whiting, who spoke on Avocation, and Charles Starbird, whose part was China, The Awakening, received honorable mention. Others whose parts were selected for the exhibition were Ruth Colburn, Torch or Beacon; Stanley W. Spratt, A Tribute to Mme. Curie; Arlene Pike, The Poet of Heartsongs; Ernestine Philbrook, An Idealist; Millard Webster, The Summons of the Flag; Gladys Hall, Industrial Progress; Winslow Anderson, Pains of Society; Gabrielle Roy, Real Internationalism; and Lewis Moore, The Negro Problem.

1921 Junior Exhibition

The parts selected for the exhibition showed an unusual brilliancy of thought in a variety of subjects. Ruth Colburn, whose topic was The Crucible, and Edward Morris, who spoke on The New Crusade, well deserved the two prizes. Others who spoke were Mildred Widber, Rambles in England; Winslow Anderson, The Seen and Unseen; Constance Walker, The Passing of the Old Home Paper; Stanley Spratt, The Time, The Place, The Man; Gladys Hall, Americanization in Industry; Millard Webster, The Problem of Education; Irma Haskell, Just a Talk on Thinking; George Hutchinson, Coöperation, the War's Great Lesson; Gabrielle Roy, New England—a Review; and Charles Starbird, The Menace of Unrest.

1923 Sophomore Prize Debates

The debates for both the men and women were held on the same evening, as was the arrangement last year. The question, "Resolved: That the principles of the Smith-Towner Bill be enacted into legislation by Congress," was debated by the girls, the affirmative by E. Marjorie Pillsbury of Limington and Nelly K. Milliken of Augusta with Theodora R. Barentzen of Augusta, as alternate; and the negative by Mildred F. Baker of Randolph and Vivienne I. Rogers of Pittsfield with Alice M. Jesseman of Lisbon, N. H., as alternate. The decision was awarded the negative team and the individual prize to Mildred Baker.

In the men's debate on the question, "Resolved: That England grant Ireland her independence," the affirmative was presented by Herbert A. Carroll of Cyrus, Mass., and Theodore R. Pinckney of Washington, D. C.; the negative by Harold C. Burdon of Gilbertville, Mass., and Ernest W. Robinson of Concord, N. H.

The winning team here was the affirmative, and Herbert Carroll received the prize as the best individual speaker.

The judges were Charles W. Bickford of Lewiston, Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. S. F. Harms, and Earl S. Lewis, Secretary of the Auburn Chamber of Commerce.

1923 Sophomore Prize Speaking

The winning declamations were Romance of a Rose, given by Helen Harris, and Death of Garfield by Herbert A. Carroll. For the remainder of the program there was The Glad Game by Florence Alta Harris, "Carry On" by Philip S. Nason, Retributive Justice by Edward F. Roberts, A Scene from The School for Scandal by Dorothy K. Wheet, The Failure of Victory by Carl E. Purinton, Blundell's Improvements by Norrine E. Whiting, America and International Peace by Robert G. Wade, How Bateese Came Home by Jeanne C. Bachelin, In Defense of John E. Cook by Abraham B. Levine, and The One Legged Goose by Grace K. Daley.

1924 Freshman Prize Speaking

The prizes were awarded William E. Young for his Speech Nominating Gov. Coolidge and Helen E. Murray for The First Call on the Butcher. For the rest of the program Louise B. Bryant presented Kentucky Bell; Elton S. Young, The Man Out of Employment; Vera L. Eldridge, Massachusetts; Frederick A. Bryant, Address to Alumni of Harvard University; Marcella M. Harradon, The Gold Louis; Donald McFarlane, Jr., A Tribute to Labor; Robertine B. Howe, Boy That Was Scaret o' Dyin'; Paul Wolynec, Lincoln—the Mystery of Democracy; Florence E. Day, Highwayman; and Erwin A. Seifert, Meagher's Defence.

Tune: "Then You'll Remember Me."

Unformed and vague within our hearts,
A thought yet undefined—
A potent love, a yearning strange,
To thee our thought-hopes bind.
The depth of that we owe to thee
We cannot realize here,
And yet we feel our kinship true,
Our Alma Mater dear,
To thee our kinship, Alma Mater dear.

REFRAIN

This symbol, love from all our future memory holds
For thee our Alma Mater, Alma Mater dear.

Dear Alma Mater, take this gift,
Our Ivy, loyal, true,—
Your faith we sons and daughters keep
All life's adventures through.
May thy ideals be ours by right,
When we have earned renown;
Then shall we turn to thee, dear Bates,
And lay the laurels down,
For thee, dear Bates, we'll lay the laurels down.

MARGUERITE HILL

Ivy Day Poem

I looked across the dull, low-rhythmed lakelet,
To where the birches fringe the water's edge,
And there beneath the glistening, misted tree-limbs,
I saw the drooping figure of my friend.

In fancy then I saw the love-moths gather,
Who weave the loom of friendship for the earth;
And their playtime ravelling and twisting
The golden gauze of love to test its worth!

They swarmed upon the air, the trees, the pebbles,
Their filmy wings made heavy by the rain—
Then hovering suddenly they clung upon him,
Some swaying upward now and back again.

And soon I felt a vague, uncertain longing;
The heart of me was at the water's end.
I went to ask forgiveness and a handclasp—
To thank God for the realness of a friend.

TUNE, Auld Lang Syne

The greatest gift of friend to friend
Is help, and a kindly hand,
Which Bates has giv'n o'er and o'er
To all her student band.

Chorus—

Today we plant the ivy green,
To grow from year to year,
A symbol of our loyalty
To Alma Mater dear.

Such service true can ne'er be paid,
In terms of life or time;
We can but carry on and on,
Spirit of Bates sublime.

To Alma Maters o'er the world,
All students pledge their faith,
In gratitude for service given,
The gift of love 'til death.

A symbol of our life to be,
This ivy green shall grow,
Forever carrying on for Bates,

TUNE: Follow the Gleam

From the years that so swiftly have flown
Full of mem'ries so bright and gay,
Shines the light of our college days
Guiding us with its gleaming ray.
Guide us, guide us, guide us, oh Bates,
Binding our hearts ever to thee.
Guide us, guide us, guide us, oh Bates,
With the light that is loyalty.

In the years that are yet to come,
Though far from these halls so dear,
Twenty-One, may thy spirit renew
All the ties that have bound us here.
Ever upward, upward, and on,
Led by the hopes fostered by thee,
Ever upward, upward, and on,
Twenty-One, we will faithful be.

Greek Play—Hippolytus

Under the guidance of Prof. Robinson, the Senior Class will this year present the Hippolytus of Euripides on the evening of Class Day, June 21st. This is without doubt the most dramatic and best balanced of the Euripides dramas and well suited for a pageantry effect in an out-door production.

Queen Phædra's secret love for her husband's son, Hippolytus, is discovered by her nurse, who treacherously betrays her mistress's confidence. Phædra, learning of this, upbraids her for her wickedness, and then in her desperation, kills herself in order to save her honor. King Theseus returns triumphant to greet his queen, and finds her dead. Enraged at his son, he exiles him, and Hippolytus, true to his oath not to tell the king, goes without a word. It is not until he is brought back dying of serious wounds, and until Artemis herself intervenes, proclaiming the innocence of Hippolytus, that the king at length asks his son's forgiveness.

The cast follows:

Bates is indeed proud of her graduates and it is due to them that Bates was granted a charter of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity in 1917. By this fact was recognized our right to stand with the foremost colleges of America. Bates is the third college in the state to win this honor, and as such is the Gamma Chapter of Maine. Membership in the fraternity is based on high scholarship and character, and the gold key, its symbol, is everywhere accepted as a proof of fine intellectual distinction.

Many of the Bates faculty are enrolled in the list of membership. Some have gained that distinction in other colleges and some as the charter members here at Bates. Each spring not more than ten per cent are elected from the Senior class and at the same time are chosen a very few graduates of ten years before who have especially distinguished themselves in scholastic work.

Following are those chosen from the class of 1921: Winslow Anderson, Maynard Johnson, Robert Jordan, Charles Starbird, Loys Wiles, Donald Woodard, Mary Bartlett, Crete Carll, Theodora Dennison, Gladys Hall, Rachel Knapp, and Florence Lindquist.

With a record of thirty-nine victories in fifty contests, debating has assumed the role of the major sport at Bates. In recognition of this record the National Council of Delta Sigma Rho granted to Bates a charter for the first chapter in Maine. To date about fifty members have learned that "Oratory is the Key to Power."

The annual initiation will take place this spring with three initiates: Edward A. Morris '21, Aurie I. Johnson '22, and William E. Young '24.

Since its installation Delta Sigma Rho has played an important part in Bates activities. The Delta Sigma Rho interscholastic debating cup has drawn together a league of forty-five secondary schools in Maine and thus furnishes valuable publicity for the college. The honor of becoming a member of our chapter encourages many men to pass the grilling hours of preparing for intercollegiate contests. From every standpoint the Bates chapter of Delta Sigma Rho is a positive force in building a better, bigger and busier Bates.

Season of 1920

The Bates 1920 football team was undoubtedly one of the lightest college teams in the East. Under the expert coaching of Tom Sullivan and his assistants, Coach Smith and Jim Carroll, it developed into a fighting aggregation which caused a great deal of trouble for its opponents. Opening the season in impressive fashion with a victory over the Fort McKinley team, it was slow in rounding into shape; but starting with the Maine game it gained momentum and wound up the season with a hard-earned triumph over the heavy New York University eleven.

The game on Sept. 25 presented the first opportunity to size up our football prospects. About forty men were tried out, of whom nine were "B" men from the 1919 season. The absence of ex-Captain Cutler, Sauvage, Duffett and Tierney, however, made it evident that Coach Sullivan had a difficult job ahead of him. Cutler, the clean, hard-fighting captain of last year's eleven, reported for practice upon his arrival at college, but owing to internal injuries he was forced to quit the squad. A back-field combination consisting of Wiggin, Kelley, Finegan and Davis was early decided on with Moulton, Rounds and Farley making effective substitutions. A pick for the All-American team as an end himself, the coach spent much time in developing ends. Canter, a veteran of the previous season, performed in almost every game, while Gormley, Rounds and Canty saw plenty of service. To fill the positions of tackles and guards was a big problem, owing to the weight of the material reporting. Finally Scott and Guiney worked very effectively in tackle positions and Capt. Stonier and Newman, a freshman, proved themselves capable men against stiff opposition, holding down the guards' berths. Sullivan, Seifert and Mitchell did their share of the heavy work, also. The center position was held down by Luce '22 with Seager and Canty substituting.

The team was equally well drilled on the offensive and defensive departments. Captain Stonier was a tower of strength at guard and his sterling game against Hussey of Maine and Haines of Bowdoin caused him later to be picked as All-Maine guard. Wiggin, although having a bone broken in his hand during the N. H. State game, pluckily finished the season with his hand in splints. He piloted the team with fine judgment and clever, driving ability. To Kelley, captain-elect, and Davis '23 must be attributed a large part of the team's success against Bowdoin and N. Y. University. Kelley won fame as an open field runner and Davis proved to possess a powerful plunging ability.

In the opening game with Fort McKinley, Bates allowed only one first down and won handily, 34-0. The work of Wiggin and Davis was conspicuous.

In the second game against N. H. State "Dutch" Connors, their halfback, performed in mid-season style and carried the ball across the Bates line twice for the only touchdowns of the game. The N. H. State eleven had fourteen veterans who heavily outweighed the Garnet. Wiggin was forced to retire on account of a broken hand. It was only after a most strenuous contest, however, that Bates was blanked, 14-0.

On Oct. 9, Bates met defeat at the hands of Mass. Aggies at Amherst, by the score of 21-7. The Bay State aggregation uncorked a great kicking game which proved disastrous for Bates.. Finegan, '24, electrified the crowd when he ran back the kick-off for 90 yards and a touchdown. For Mass. Aggies Capt. Poole, Grayson and Collins played a superb game. For Bates, Scott at left tackle put up a fine brand of football, while Moulton, Finegan, and Davis were the backfield stars.

The State Series

Colby came to Lewiston the following Saturday to open the Maine State Championship Series with Bates. As Colby had played in no regular contests up to that time, Bates was picked by the sporting writers as the favorite. It was a clean, hard-fought game and resulted in a hard-earned victory for Colby, 13-0. Both of the touchdowns came as a result of a blocked punt and a fumble. The first score counted when Lowery of Colby broke through the Bates line and blocked a punt. The ball rolled under the Bates goalposts and Pulsifer of Colby fell on it for the touchdown. The second touchdown resulted from a fumble of a bad pass, the ball rolling under the posts and a Colby player landed on it for a touchdown. Throughout the first half the Colby team showed the greater strength and it was only the wonderful work of the Bates line which prevented them from scoring more than once. When Wiggin was sent into the fray in the last half with a bandaged hand Bates came back and gave a wonderful exhibition of football.

If Colby had been allowed to retain her backfield combination throughout the state series it is obvious that she would have been a serious contender for the championship. As it was, however, one of her star backs could not meet the eligibility rules and only Bates suffered a defeat at her hands in this state.

Bates Championship Hopes Crimped in the Maine Game

It was a rousing and long-to-be-remembered send-off which all of Bates gave to the team when it left for Orono the following Friday afternoon. That the wonderful spirit and confidence of the Bates supporters in their team was not misplaced, was demonstrated early in the first quarter of the torrid contest which took place that Saturday afternoon. In the first half every man on the Bates team played A-1 football. Maine was completely outclassed in every department of the game. The line plunging of Davis and Moulton netted yard after yard, while Wiggin thrilled the stands time and again by fast spectacular runs. Capt. Stonier had a field day with Hussey of Maine. The first half ended with the score Bates, 8; Maine, 7. In the second half a successful forward pass was fatal for Bates, despite the fact that the line from end to end and four backfield men consistently outplayed the Blue and White. It was one of the most sensational and spectacular games of the year. The score card reads: Maine, 14; Bates, 8.

Bates Divides Honors with Bowdoin in a Scoreless Tie

On Oct. 30 Bates staged its last state series game with Bowdoin, and before an overflowing crowd of 2500 the two old rivals fought to a 0-0 tie in the most spectacular and thrilling battle ever seen on Garcelon Field. The Bowdoin aggregation, very confident after its win over Colby, was superior to Bates in the rushing game because if its heavier line and back field. That the Garnet, however, was their equal in every other department was early demonstrated. Bowdoin made frequent substitutions on account of injuries, a fact which shows the fierceness of the milling and the hard tackling of the Bates team. Capt. Stonier gave a peerless exhibition of football at left guard. Time and again Davis at fullback and the sensation of the game, would crash through the Bowdoin line both on offense and defense. Wiggin piloted the team with rare ability. The game was hotly contested through the entire first half. Bates made threatening gains toward the Bowdoin goal posts but the Black and White defense would tighten and there was no scoring. In the second half Bowdoin strengthened and their attack was imminent several times. At the conclusion of the deadlock it was evident that the teams were very evenly matched. The whole Garnet outfit played extraordinary football and presented a clean, hard-fighting machine on both offense and defense.

Bates Springs Surprise in New York

In the last game of the season Bates defeated New York University, 21-18. The New Yorkers' failure to kick goals after touchdowns settled their fate. Both teams resorted to the forward passing game and in many cases, successfully. The open field running of Kelley frequently thrilled the stands. The alertness of Wiggin, however, in the last few minutes of play, when he feigned sending Kelley through center with the ball and circled the end himself for the last touchdown spelled defeat for New York and a glorious victory for Bates.

Two wins, four losses, and a tie tells the history of our 1920 football season.

Baseball Season of 1920

CAPT. WIGGIN

When Bates pried the lid off the 1920 baseball season in a game April 16 with Fort Williams there were four letter men upon whom our hopes of a winning ball club rested. They were Capt. Wiggin, Cusick, Dillon, and Van Vloten. Burns, '20, was unable to report for early practice. These men later formed the nucleus of one of the strongest teams ever representing Bates College. It will be difficult to forget the remarkable pitching of "Bill" Johnston, a Freshman, as well as the superb fielding and hitting of his classmates Sauvage and Donahue. The excellent work of the two other new men, Langley and Ebner, will always be associated with that championship outfit. To the veterans, Capt. Wiggin, Burns, Van Vloten, Dillon, and Cusick, must also be attributed a large share of the victories.

The team made a good record, losing only five games out of fourteen played. And in the Maine State Championship they dropped only one to Maine. Their record alone is sufficient to prove the calibre of the ball club. Praise to the second string men who worked out faithfully and conscientiously should not be neglected, while to the man who developed and coached such a team must be given due credit. Coach Smith, laboring under the handicap of being physical director and coach of baseball at the same time, met all obstacles and overcame them. He apparently groomed the team with one object in view and that was the Maine State Championship. He achieved his object and then some. Satisfaction on the part of the entire student body and the loyal rooters of Lewiston and Auburn and "success" by the team were the two qualities that stand out pre-eminent in our 1920 baseball season.

In the opening game of the year against Fort Williams Coach Smith tried out sixteen players. "Jim" Young and Van Vloten contributed two hits apiece. Bates won handily, 5-4.

On April 19th Bowdoin defeated Bates in a loosely played game, 12-2. "Dan" Mahoney used four pitchers in turn. "Bill" Johnston proved very effective, Wiggin contributed a three-bagger and two singles.

On the Massachusetts trip Bates pinned a 14-3 defeat on Lowell Textile, registering 16 hits to Text's 5. Rain prevented games with Boston University and New Hampshire State.

Cusick held Maine to two hits in the first game of the Maine State Championship Series while his teammates rolled up a 2-0 lead. Donahue, '23, hit the ball like a fiend, getting three hits for six bases in four times at bat. Burns and Sauvage put up a clever fielding game.

In the next game against Boston University Bates was the victor, 5-3. Sauvage tripled with the bases choked in the fourth stanza, tying the score, while Dillon's triple and Van Vloten's double produced the winning run in the fifth.

On May 7th Coach Smith sent his second string pitchers against St. Anselm's College of New Hampshire. St. Anselm's won, 8-2.

Superb pitching by Bill Johnston was the feature of the game at Waterville the following Saturday. Colby was shut out, 4-0. Capt. Bucknam of Colby, also, twirled an effective game. Sauvage, Donahue, and Dillon exhibited a sterling brand of ball in the infield.

The following two games against Fort Williams at Portland and Maine at Orono produced a win and a loss. Fort Williams was defeated, 12-1, while Maine turned the tables and won, 5-3.

On the Southern trip the Garnet dropped two loosely played games to Brown and Boston College.

In the return game against Colby on Garcelon field, Bates won in a close contest, 5-3. Donahue's hitting was the feature.

In the annual Memorial Day contest Bates practically clinched its right to the State Championship title. Bowdoin was defeated, 3-2. Again much credit is due to Johnston who entered the box after pitching a hard game against Colby only two days before. Flinn pitched good ball for the losers. Dillon had four assists and four putouts. Sauvage at the hot corner turned in some spectacular fielding. Capt. Wiggin and Dillon both got two hits.

At Brunswick on the morning of June 4th before a record-breaking crowd and amidst the battle of music, Capt. Wiggin led his charges to another sensational win over our old rivals, Bowdoin, to the tune of 9-5. No one who witnessed that game will ever forget it. Spectacular catches by Wiggin, the work of Van Vloten behind the bat and "Norm" Sauvage at third will linger longer in our memories than any World Series game. It was a wonderful ending of a most successful season.

Season of 1921

Under most favorable weather conditions forty men reported to Coach Smith for baseball practice early in April. There were five letter men available, Capt. Wiggin, Ebner, Langley and Cusick of last year's champions and Kennelly, who was not in college last year. From the outset it was evident that the coach had a big job on his hands, both in developing a reliable infield combination as well as a consistent battery department. Kennelly, Cogan, Finnegan, Foynes, Jordan, and Moulton are at the time of writing fighting hard for infield berths. In the battery department Cusick, Jack Spratt and Spiller are the promising candidates for twirling honors, while Partridge and Coronios will wear the mask. If hard work, baseball and nothing but baseball will make a winning team, then it is a sure bet that Capt. Wiggin and Coach Smith will have one before the season is over.

In the games up to date the team has been losing. Jack Spratt, the basketball captain, is pulling the all-around athlete stunt, for he is now called upon to assume the bulk of the pitching duties. The infield is not a smooth working and reliable combination, although at times they display a brand of ball which means a pennant winner.

Wiggin, Langley and Ebner are the same safe guardians of the field as last year. Partridge is showing up well behind the bat. With the season still young it is difficult to prophesy as to championship qualities of our 1921 ball club. Win or lose, however, Bates and its followers are well assured that under the direction of Coach Smith and Capt. Wiggin there will always be a clean, hard-fought contest.

In the opening game with Harvard, Bates held the Crimson nine even for five stanzas. In the last half of the sixth and during a shower, four runners crossed the plate, making the score Harvard 6, Bates 2. The game was called at the end of that inning. The feature of this contest was the home-run of Capt. Wiggin, Cusick twirling effectively.

In the next game, the annual exhibition game with Bowdoin on April 19, Jack Spratt pulled the unexpected and pitched a masterly game on the long end of a 4-2 score. "Kippy" Jordan and Partridge batted hard for Bates while Needleman and Clifford got two hits apiece for Bowdoin. The fielding of Cogan at second base and Capt. Wiggin in the center garden was flawless.

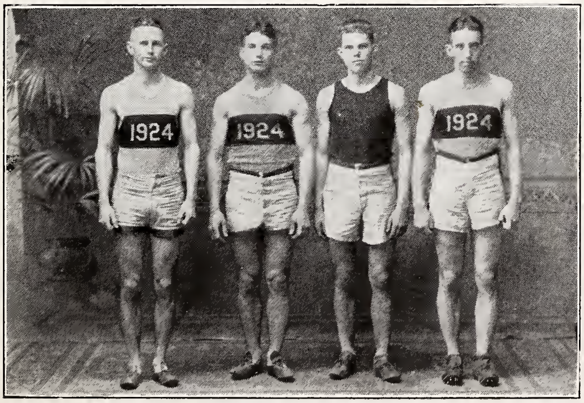
Cross-Country Champions

Cross-Country

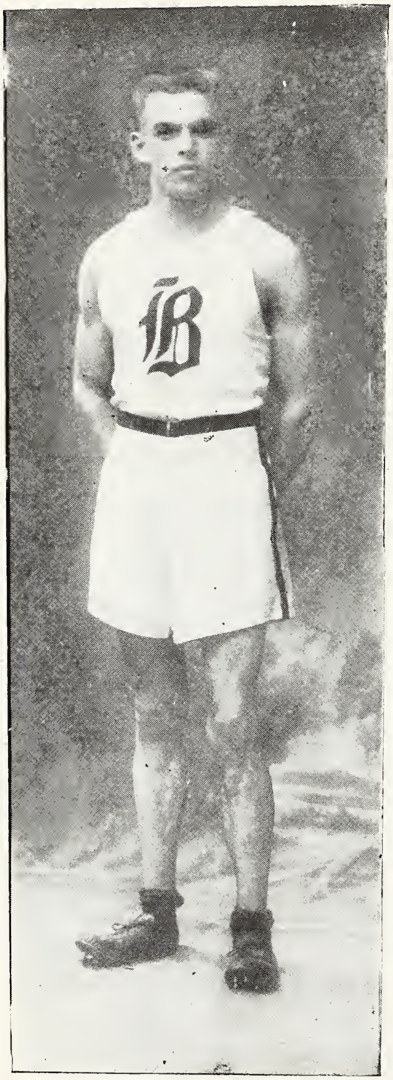
The first call for the Bates hill-and-dalers was issued soon after college opened. There were two letter men, the Buker twins, while Batten, Clifford, Peterson, and C. T. Perkins had performed the previous season. Of the new men Kimball '22 proved a Tartar as well as Kane '24. This squad was moulded into the Maine State Champions and runners-up for the New England cross-country honors. R. B. Buker '22 was the individual star of this strong combination. He upset all dope at the N. E. Intercollegiates, when he passed MacMahon of Tech for a fast win. The work of his twin brother, Richard S., also was of championship calibre, while Kane, Kimball, and Batten showed their heels to the majority of the field in both races. It was an extraordinarily strong team, whose record we can well be proud of. Its success was due to faithful training under the direction of Coach Johnstone.

The season opened Nov. 15 at Brunswick, and for the first time in the history of cross-country running in the state of Maine, the U. of M. team was forced to second by Bates, who turned in the low score of 21 points. Maine rolled up 65 points for second place, while Bowdoin and Colby finished with 67 and 75, respectively, to their credit. The feature of the race was the fifty-fifty finish of the Buker twins, who were 25 seconds ahead of the rest of the field. Kane, a Freshman, pressed Hart of Bowdoin closely for third position and Kimball sprang a delightful surprise when he crossed the line in sixth position. Batten '23 gave the renowned Goodwin the race of his life for seventh place and Clifford '23 was close on his heels.

In the N. E. Intercollegiates the following Saturday the Bates runners again performed in big league fashion. The Garnet was defeated only by Mass. Tech. The work of Raymond Buker, who defeated 80 men, is worthy of highest commendation. Richard Buker, finishing strong in seventh place, was the next Bates man, while Kane in thirteenth position, Kimball in twentieth and Batten in fortieth place completed the scoring for Bates with a total of 81 points, second only to Tech. with 59.



FRESHMEN RELAY



RAYMOND B. BUKER
International Two-mile Champion

After completing a track season which produced the international champion two-miler, champions in the 100-yd. dash, the 880, the two-mile and discus throw in the Maine Intercollegiates, seven first place winners in a dual meet with New Hampshire State, and an impressive victory over the Tufts relay team in the B. A. A. Indoor Meet, it is plain that by no other word can the season be described than "a success." Of course, a fair consideration of the team clearly shows that it was weak in jumps and weights and the failure to place men in these events cost the team two victories. Mention should be made, also, of the loss of Farley in the last two meets. He pulled a tendon in the New Hampshire meet which put him out for the rest of the season. Much praise should be attributed to Coach Johnston, who has worked untiringly with the thirty men reporting daily for practice. Despite the graduation of Captain Buker and Wiggin, '21, men whom it will be difficult to replace by superiors in their events, it is safe to predict a glorious track season for next year. Hodgman and Varney, quarter-milers who have developed rapidly in the last year, and Webster, Newell, Small and Gross in the jumps will also be missed.

Indoor Track

Regular practice for indoor track started shortly after the cross-country season was over. With only the B. A. A. Meet and the Interclass contests as opportunities for competition it was surprising to note the large number of men who trained faithfully during the hard winter months. Finally, Wiggin and Farley were chosen to enter the fifty-yard dash in the B. A. A. Games, while Hodgman, Batten '23, R. B. and R. S. Buker were the fastest men for the triangular relay with Maine and Tufts. Maine, with an exceptionally fleet quartet, won the race, and Bates easily led Tufts.

The 28th Annual Indoor Meet at City Hall was held March 9. It attracted the usual crowd and owing to the closeness of the score, it proved very interesting. The class of 1923, decided dark horses before the meet. rolled up 37 points, 1921 was second with 34½, 1922 had 32 points, and 1924, 28½. Farley, '24, took three first places. Irving, Davis, and Batten were the trio that won for 1923. It was only a side show, but worth double the price to see our freshman relay team outdistance the Bowdoin freshmen by half a lap.

The Penn Relay Carnival

Bates sent three men, R. B. Buker, Farley '24, and Luce '22, to compete with the country's best at the Penn Relay Carnival. Everyone knows the story of Buker's victory in the international two-mile, after a sensational sprinting finish. He was clocked in the fast time of 9.25 3-5s. Furnas of Purdue University and Nightingale of West Virginia were the calibre of men who were forced to read his number on the heart-breaking home stretch. This accomplishment, by far, exceeds any other effort of a Bates man in track athletics. It brings a national reputation to Buker and a signal honor to our Alma Mater.

Farley entered the 100-yd. dash and, likewise, competed with the fleetest century men in America. In his heat of seven contestants, Farley was a close second at the tape to Gourdin, famous Harvard sprinter. Luce, '22, hurled the discus 116 ft. 4 in., and against such stiff competition made a very commendable showing.

The Dual Meet With New Hampshire

New Hampshire State won the dual meet with Bates on May 7 by a score of 71-55. The weakness of Bates in the weight events was the chief cause of defeat.

The feature of the meet was the easy manner in which Wiggin captured first places in both the 100-yd. and 220-yd. This was a remarkable feat, considering that Wiggin returned from the Massachusetts baseball trip, without training in track, to compete in these events. Farley, '24, an excellent dash man, pulled a tendon in the first heat of the 100-yd. dash. Burrill and Wilson took first places in the broad jump and pole vault, respectively. In the distance runs, the Buker twins and Kane, '24, showed their heels to the field. Rose, '23, and Jenkins, '22, did well in the hurdles.

The Maine Intercollegiates

On the following Saturday all of Bates went down to Bowdoin to cheer the track team in the Maine Intercollegiates. Despite the rain, which poured heavily all day and left the track mostly a pool of water and mud, the meet was close and interesting. Bowdoin won with a total of 44 1-3 points; Maine, 28 1-3; Colby, 26 1-3; Bates, 26.

Bowdoin's strength lay in the dashes, a slight margin in the jumps, and broke even in the weights. Maine was strong in the weights and even with Bowdoin in the jumps. Colby gathered her points in the hurdles and kept even in runs and weights. Bates was superior in distance races, good in dashes and weights, and outclassed in the hurdles and jumps.

In the century and furlong, our old standby, Wiggin, plodded through water ankle deep to a spectacular win in the hundred, and took second in the two-twenty. The most thrilling and heart-breaking race of the afternoon was furnished by Charlie Kane in the half-mile. Stepping right out in front for the first quarter, he never slackened a bit until he broke the worsted by a comfortable margin over Goodwin of Bowdoin, who was displaying a remarkable spurt. And from some place in the rear, Batten, '23, came down the home stretch with an extraordinary burst of speed and just missed nipping Herrick of Maine at the finish for third place by inches.

Mercer of Colby and Richard Buker also provided an afternoon's entertainment in the mile run. The going was too muddy for the famous Buker sprint, however, and our captain was forced to be content with second position. The two-mile was all summer to Raymond Buker, who stepped out front during the first quarter and led the field as he willed for the remainder of the race. Kimball, '22, put up a wonderful fight in this race for third place. In the discus-throw, Luce, '22, won handily.

CAPT. WOODARD

Bates has a strong tennis team this year which has already given a good account of itself. The squad consists of Edward Roberts, '23, and Oscar LeSieur, '22, both letter men, as first doubles team, and Carl Purinton, '23, and Donald Woodard, '21, as second doubles team. On May 11, Bowdoin won the dual meet, four matches to two. At that time it was evident that the brand of tennis which would be seen at the State meet would be above par. We were fortunate to have the State meet held on our own courts this spring and although we did not take the championship Bates placed both doubles teams and one singles player, Roberts, in the semi-finals.

The tennis schedule this spring has been greatly enlarged over previous years. Meets with Colby and Boston University appear on the list and it is hoped that Bates will be represented at Longwood this spring.

Among other men who have made a bid for the team are Elwood Ireland, '22, a letter man, and "Dick" Stanley, '24, who won the Freshman Tennis Tournament Cup last fall.

*Elected following Cutler's graduation in February.

J. W. Cogan '24	Center
R. J. Stanley '24	Rover
O. F. Smith '21	Right Wing
F. V. Cutler '21, C. P. Rounds '22	Point

C. L. Wiggin '21	Goal

Making its second appearance as a varsity hockey seven, the 1921 team went through a successful season, despite the fact that it only won four of the eight games played. The weather was peculiarly favorable for hockey, especially from the spectator's standpoint. The team had many loyal rooters among the people of Lewiston as well as a strong backing from the student body.

Hockey practice started the first week in December with Coach-Captain Cutler in charge of the work-outs. Capt. Cutler, Wiggin, and Roberts were the only letter men available. Roberts, Cogan, Stanley, and Smith were early decided upon for the forward positions, while Capt. Cutler, Rounds, Belmore, Scott, and Delaney were the outer defense men to remain on the squad. Wiggin was the goal tender in every game, and after Cutler's graduation in February led the team for the remainder of the season.

The first game was with the veteran Boston College outfit, immediately after the Christmas recess. Both sevens were ragged in team work and Bates, especially, was in poor physical condition. After registering a lone unearned tally in the first half, the septet from Boston came back strong in the second half and rolled up a 5-0 score.

The next game with the fast Nibrocs of Berlin, N. H., was the most sensational game of the season. From start to finish the game was a series of thrills, and it required two over-time periods of ten minutes each before Capt. Cutler, who displayed a sterling brand of hockey all season, finally wended his way down the ice and lifted the puck by the vigilant Berlin goal-tender. The work of Wiggin and Cutler was the feature of the game.

The following Saturday, Coach Smith sent his charges against Bowdoin. One sporting editor said in regard to the game that the superior team and individual work of the fast Bates septet dazzled Bowdoin so that she lost sight of the puck. Bowdoin was literally snowed under, although the score of 4-0 only half tells the tale. Only the excellent work of Miguel in goal kept the score down to reasonable bounds.

In the next game against the St. Dominiques of Lewiston, "Eddie" Roberts, left wing, enjoyed a field day. He registered five out of ten tallies.

In one of the roughest games of the year, Bates suffered a 10-3 defeat at the hands of the speedy Portland Country Club, the following Saturday. On Feb. 14 the Berlin, N. H., team in winding up a hockey trip through Canada, took the measure of Bates in another over-time game, 2-1.

Minus the services of Capt. Cutler in a return game on Washington's Birthday, Bates again defeated her rival, Bowdoin, 2-0. Cogan '24 in center position gave an excellent exhibition of fast skating and clever stick work.

In their final appearance the Garnet septet stacked up against the fast Springfield Y. M. C. A. aggregation in the annual carnival game. This game was perhaps the most sensational and closest of any game on the home rink, and it was only after the most gruelling contest that Bates was defeated, 2-1. Cogan was again the individual star, his repeated dashes down the rink and clever stick work being the feature of the game.

Inter-Class Hockey

Lack of favorable weather and rink conditions prevented the final match to settle the controversy about interclass hockey. The preliminary matches resulted as follows:

1921 three defeats, dropping one game to each of the three other classes.
1922 victory from 1921, defeat from 1923, and defeat from 1924.
1923 victory from 1921, and victory from 1922.
1924 victory from 1921, and victory from 1922.

Thus the Sophomores and the Freshmen were brought together for the final match to decide the championship. It would have doubtless been an interesting game to watch, but "Old Man Jupiter," ably seconded by "Old Sol," decided that the contest should not take place, and it was necessary to give up the program. The deadlock was not settled, and the Sophomores and Freshmen share the honors. Material for future varsity squads was discovered, and we may expect to hear from some of the performers.

On December 18, 1920, Bates was represented in basketball for the first time. From that date to the end of the season the Garnet had a team which she may well remember with pride. Many difficulties presented themselves to Coach Smith in the early stages, for the sport was undergoing a change from pugilistic and "catch-as-catch-can" encounters to a scientific, clean form of athletics. By rigid insistence that every man observe the rules of the game, the Coach was able to develop a team that was outclassed by New Hampshire State alone; and the latter is acknowledged as the champion of New England. To be sure, there were other defeats, but the Garnet quintet were always in the same class as the opposing forces.

The success of a team lies in the man chosen to lead it, and especially so if there have been no previous contests from which to judge the caliber of the candidates. "Jack" Spratt was incontestably that man, and no captain has ever faced a more dubious future, with practically an inexperienced team, than he did when the season was young. With the conviction that his men were truly capable of playing the game in an irreproachable manner, "Jack" inspired them with his confidence and received their whole coöperation. The scores attest the result. The Captain's own ability was excelled by no man whom he faced in center position. His record at foul shooting is remarkable, and he also caged the basket from the floor more times than any of his teammates. Little wonder that "Jack" was the idol of the Garnet basketball squad.

Davis and Burrill of '23 were the only other upperclassmen besides Captain Spratt to win a place on the varsity aggregation. The first of these proved always a dependable mainstay when the breaks were against the Garnet. "Davie" was never rattled, and his quiet, determined attitude often had a steadying influence at critical moments. Burrill, by hard, conscientious work, was promoted to the first team about the middle of the season. His exhibition at the Boston games was noteworthy.

The remainder of the team were Freshmen. Of these the pair from Haverhill, Mass., Kempton and Coronios, were a duet that sang the swan song for opponents who were too far gone to warble for themselves. "Kempie," the baby of the squad, won the praise and admiration of every Bates man and woman for his grit and skill against players who outweighed him from twenty to one hundred pounds. Always alert, never discouraged, this diminutive flash of lightning, endowed with an eagle eye for shooting baskets, was a thorn in the flesh for the opposition. Next to "Jack," "Kempie" dropped the ball through the loop for the greatest number of points. "Jimmie," the other member of the couple, starred in finer points of the game. With bad habits to overcome from former coaching, this lad from the Bay State proved a valuable asset to the squad, especially in the art of clever passing.

Johnson, another of Massachusetts' sons, while not a wizard at shooting, played an excellent guarding game. Ever willing to give a little more than expected, Walter worked hard to win when he participated in the game.

The rest of the squad hail from the Empire State. Wilson, Gormley, and Reinhardsen, all started the season with a knowledge of the present day game as each had trained under Coach Smith in prep. school days. "Mike" Wilson was one of the best forwards of the season, and Gormley was at center when "Jack" was out of the game. Both men exhibited basketball of the highest quality.

The prospects of an excellent team next year are very promising. Captain Spratt is the only man to graduate, and with the return of the rest of the team and what new material may enter next fall, a championship aggregation may be expected.

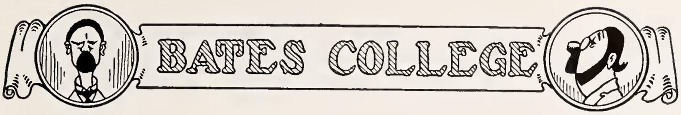
Athletic Board



Athletic Association

President, Minerva Cutler, '21

Vice-President, Beatrice Clark, '22

Secretary, Maud Small, '23

The Athletic Board, formed by the officers and managers of the various sports, carries on the business of the Association. The work of the Board during the past year has been excellent. Great credit is due Minerva Cutler, who, as President of the Athletic Association, has headed the Board with her usual straightforward judgment and efficiency.

Miss Davies came to us at the beginning of the year as Miss Niles' assistant. She has been a great help for us in coaching our various teams and we feel that we owe much to her knowledge and cheerful manner of arousing pep and enthusiasm.

This year the wearing of the garnet and black was limited to those who have made three first teams or more. The majority of girls may have to work four years to wear the college colors. In 1920 the girls were given the right to wear the "B" after being a member of ten first teams. This means that no girl can possibly earn her "B" in less than two years of hard and concentrated training.

The season opened with the Hare and Hound Chase which was held on the river bank. The trails were difficult and the girls arrived with ravenous appetites which were amply satisfied. After supper they gathered around the big bonfire and sang all the songs they knew and some that they didn't know! This annual chase is a custom that we would not care to do away with as it affords us an opportunity to initiate the Freshmen girls and to arouse enthusiasm for the coming sports.

Immediately after the Hare and Hound Chase, Hockey began. Volleyball, Basketball, Track, Soccer, and Tennis followed through the year. The closing games of each season were displays of skill and spirit never before equalled.

The annual Basketball Banquet closed the Basketball season. The decorations were in keeping with St. Patrick's Day and the menu was all that could be desired. The toasts were excellent and afterwards as the girls sat singing in the soft candlelight waiting for "Karl" to take their pictures, each thought in her heart how very worth while the strenuous season just passed had been.

Thus have we, in happy sport and good comradeship, completed one of the most satisfactory years in the history of Bates girls.

First Team Champions 1921

Hockey

Hockey, our first fall sport, was a struggle from start to finish. All classes showed the results of concentrated work and fine coaching and a number of tie games resulted. The Seniors won the championship after a hard-fought season. The skill displayed by the underclasses gives fine promise for the coming season.

Second Team Champions 1921

First Team Champions 1922

Volley Ball

Volley ball has always been considered a rather tame sport. However, it gives a much needed rest between the strenuous games of hockey and basketball. It also gives the iodine bottle a rest, since there is no danger whatever of getting hurt while playing volley ball. The practices are miniature vaudeville shows. After close and interesting games the championship went to the Juniors.

Basketball

Basketball this year has been particularly successful. The vigor and enthusiasm with which the games were played off won applause from both sides of the campus. 1921 easily won the championship by a display of speed and teamwork which has never been equalled at Bates. The other teams showed the results of enthusiastic practice which prophesies well for the coming year.

Track

Track deserves singular mention in that 1921 has held the championship for three years. At the present time there are five records held by Seniors. Much credit is due Norma Whiting, who has captained the 1921 team since Freshman year and who, herself, holds four records.

Tennis

Tennis holds the interest of everyone from those who can just hold a racquet to those who play off challenges and win championships. The side lines are always filled with cheering sections and interested spectators. Last year 1921 won both singles and doubles, thus making Rachel Knapp winner of the singles cup for three consecutive years and the doubles team champions for two years.

1921 First Team Champions for 1920

Soccer

Last year was the first year that soccer has been played at Bates. In spite of this fact, however, quite a degree of skill has been achieved. The Seniors won the championship here also. With an increase of spirit and skill soccer may be made one of the most keenly contested of all the sports.

We pledge ourselves to your success;
Our love for you will ne'er grow less.

FIELD DAY

In 1913 a cup was presented to the Women's Athletic Association by Miss Edna B. Manship, at that time physical director here. It was to be competed for annually and to become the property of the class holding it two years. Thus the cup has gone to the class winning the greatest number of championships in a year. The cup has been held for one year by the classes of 1913, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. The class of 1921 won their Junior year and again in their Senior year, placing the cup in their possession permanently.

Secrets About Ourselves—Our Good Points and Others

Tallest—The girls can see no one else when Jack Spratt is around—he gets unanimous attention for "lofty ambitions and slim means." Between Norma Whiting and Marguerite Findlen, however, the entire class could hardly decide, but in the end, Norma comes out a good first.

Shortest—Connie Walker gets everybody's vote. Girls were quite at sea about the height of the boys and threw a line for McKinney, with Case and Rand as far seconds.

Biggest Crab—Well, can't any of us say much, but we seemed to derive great pleasure in using one ballot. Bridges—for someone else. There was no question at all about Bridges—he pulls a royal flush. Paul and Hamlin get half-hearted support. Among the girls it was hotly contested, with Hodgdon and Coburn running neck to neck and Merrill, Fairweather and Barnie outdistanced almost at the first. The home stretch revealed Coburn in the lead by a length.

Man Hater—When it comes to the philosophical pastime of hating man, Kate Jones makes away with the heavy laurels, with Carrie Doe as a limping second. Too bad, Carrie, where d'you get that limp?

Biggest Head—And we have to hand the ruby cuff-links to Hamlin and Glad Hall for having good sized heads. By the way, Phil, you got a few votes right here yourself.

Mischief Maker—There is within the confines of our clever class a quiet, peaceful person with a truly angelic temperament. O. Smith is our mischief maker—though you'd never guess it from his conversational line. "Angel" is his nickname among the ladies—"Kelly" with the mighty sex. In the opinion of the co-eds there is no strenuously mischievous damsel in '21—but Carrie J. has tendencies in that direction, or as Mac might say, "an inborn capacity," and Emma comes across with a wicked shrug.

Noisiest—We are admittedly a gentle, unassuming class, seldom raising roughhouses and never making uncalled-for noises, but we've got to hand it to Caroline for answering the call! You're there, Caro*line*, you're there!

Quietest—As a necessary balance we have Clarence Field. He and Carrie offset each other beautifully. We don't believe that he has said more than three unnecessary words since he came to Bates. And there is no one like him in Rand Hall; Dite is quiet, but oh, my!

General Nuisances—See those four happy-go-lucky humans, hopping along hand-in-hand? They are Marceline, Allanby, Emma and Pasquale. Do you wonder why we class them as we do? Well, it is customary to have a nuisance or two, so we tried to scare some up—Marceline because of her high-powered laugh, Al because of his vicious tennis cut, Emma because of her kith and kins, and Pasquale—well, just to make a smooth-running four.

Brilliant—Our shining wonders are Glad Hall and Jack Spratt. Their wits are always on edge, their flashing repartee is actually worthy of reproduction—but we can't think of anything on the spur of the moment, so we'll leave it at that.

Best Orator—Glad Hall and Starbird pile up the score for orating, with Irma rolling a miserable 70 in useless pursuit.

Greatest Grind—It is notable that the candidates were few. Maynard Johnson, it turns out, works hardest, outnumbering entirely Andy's loyal supporters. Theda Bara Dennison represents the girls beyond comparison, though Eunice Hawkins and Connie Walker get honorable mention.

Most Popular—The whole class loves to see long Jack Spratt coming, though the girls just couldn't get Kelly Smith's sunny smile and Belmore's classic nose out of mind. Kate Jones will be longest remembered and Min Cutler almost as long. Irma was not far in the distance.

Best Dresser—Well, the girls ought to know, but they couldn't decide for the life of them between Bob Jordan and Arthur Bates. Woodard and McKinney also reflect the fashion sheet. Among the girls this was a critical question. They finally decided on Findlin. Ernestine Philbrook and Eddie Merrill know how to get themselves up. Ruth Bowie's creations were not forgotten, either.

Best Disposition—Well, you wouldn't think many would get in there—especially if we have a room-mate, let alone two—but Kelly Smith seems to have stood the test. Some thought Hutchinson ought to get it. The girls know Sammy Brewster is a regular peach, in the morning as well as later on, and Rae Knapp, Mary Bartlett and Mil Edwards are mighty good kids to get along with.

Best Looking—This was a question—we never noticed our features before. The girls prefer Al Dean, though Bob Jordan and Cusick and Langley and Bond aren't bad at all. The Parker Hall bunch hold out for Ernestine Philbrook and Hughes, but the girls tip the balance for Barb Gould—bet the bob did that, Barb.

Most Efficient—Bill Hodgman's stern conducting of business affairs has put him across with the girls all right. We saw the votes. Fe Cutler is mighty nifty at managing, too, and Woodard and Jordan surely know how to run things. Izzie and Phil stand out among the girls in the business department.

Biggest Eater—This is very interesting. The girls unanimously say Hutchinson, though Cusick gets one vote from them—wonder if that was Eddie's. Then Eunice Hawkins enjoys respite from study, and Fairweather and Connolly are disgusted to see that they have a good supply of votes. Cora Cox is not forgotten.

Best Sport—Kate and Jack are the jolly good sports, the reg'lar people of '21. Here's how, old dears, may you ever live up to your rep.

Best Dancers—Among the men, Harry Hall is said to shake a mean hoof—and as for the ladies, we salaam to our modern Terpsichore, Carrie J.

Class Babies—Ever hear Marion remark that she was the youngest one there. It was probably true enough, she is a young thing. We present the pretty pink rattle to Marion and Hamlin, the embryonic wonders of our class.

Greatest Optimist—When it comes to throwing the sunny smile and cheerful grin Ruth Stilesie and Kelly Smith are there with the berries—Ruth gets an almost unanimous vote—though Sammie comes in with a cheerful few.

Sleepyheads—Cusick is our standard sleepyhead—no one else can hold a candle to him. Ruth Fisher used to be a rather strenuous worshiper of Morpheus but she's had an awakening.

Those Who Work Least—Yea, Emma! Yea, Connolly! Yea, Yea, Emma Connolly! This maddening cheer nearly drowns out the feeble attempt to give the honors to Carrie J. They say that Jim Stonier and Cusick never did a day's work, either.

Time Killer—This time we sing "All Hail, Emma" more loudly than before and again we hear Carrie J. in the dim distance. The boys give two rousing cheers for Jack Spratt.

Who Kids the Profs?—We see a demure little maid walk innocently up to Monie to explain that she must leave English at 2—Irma has an important engagement with Music Hall. Close on her footsteps comes Marguerite, who has to see Irma arrive at the show safely. Then there is Dusty—what he has not told Prof. Britan first and last is not worth mentioning.

Rand Hall Pest—Here is another honor to add to your Phi Beta Kappa, Wiles. John Cusick comes in a close second, not on the Phi Beta Kappa, though.

The Laziest—Emma and John Cusick receive the unanimous vote of the entire class. The only thing Emma can do is go to the movies, and John clutters up Rand Hall steps.

Biggest Mushers—Wiles wins here again. John is his close rival again. Ethel Fairweather was mentioned but we don't take this seriously.

Greatest Musician—Crete Carll and Kenneth Steady finish strong, although closely followed by Carrie Jordan and Don Woodard. Someone says Bill Langley is a musician.

Best Chaperoness—"Let's get Miss Niles"—this is what we all say. How many wonderful times we have to look back upon with "Nilesy" as our chaperone. Mrs. Shaffner is the favorite for the dances. "Wasn't Mrs. Shaffner a peach to let us stay so long?"

Biggest Athlete—Of course this was mere form—Wiggin sweeps the board. The girls have made a splash in collecting inter-class honors—Miss Cutler is judged our best with Carrie Jordan, Jones and Carrie Doe as no mean talent.

Biggest Vamps—Evidently we have them on both sides of the campus. Wiles gets in on his devilish eyes and Newall with his ogling ones. Jack gets a vote here, too,—ha, ha!

Bolsheviki—There are no Bolshevists among the men, but the girls are swift to hand the honors to Marg Hill and Glad Hall, Marguerite leading by many lengths. She is rather rough, eh, kids?

Biggest Jazz Hounds—Harry Hall and Carrie J. are the jazz fiends—a few miserable others follow in their wake, but the glory is not divided.

Most Talented—Irma and Jack walk away with the prize. Just like that—without much struggle. They can do anything. V. is their middle initial—stands for versatility.

Movie Fiend—Here's Emma again—yea boom! And Mannie Smith. Both are romantic souls.

The Wittiest—Irma and Jack again. Irma got her rep on bum puns and Jack on general cleverness.

Who Goes Not to Chapel?—Proctors' records tell us that Irma and Dusty are the guilty ones. But we didn't have to ask the proctors; the thing is obvious.

Greatest Philosophers—Widber, Hill and Blackington, with Irma running weakly three lengths behind. Deep stuff, Irmie, kinder heavy for a little gal. Those three are wonders—Omar Khayyams 'n' everything.

Thus endeth the revelation.

Sensation and Scandal Explained!!!

Sometime during the month of January, 1921, there took place a movie show in Chase Hall. The fact that there was such a show in Chase Hall is not a remarkable thing in itself, but at this particular performance Ken Steady made an announcement which caused every person in the audience to be on the qui vive. Let us listen to the announcement: "Ladies and gentlemen, a dictagraph has been placed in the faculty room of R. W. H., which has recorded the exact words of the various members of our faculty." A current of excitement, of curiosity, and of expectation permeates the assembly. Were the patents, copyrights, and formulas of the Bates College Canning Factory at last to be made known to the public? But there is no chance for prolonged meditation on this subject, for Mr. Steady continues: "Doubtless you will be surprised to learn that this recorded conversation took place at about two o'clock in the morning." Could it be possible that the faculty were in session at that late hour? (The Prayer Meeting investigations had ceased long ago.) But listen! Ken has not finished his announcement. "I am sure that everyone will rejoice to hear that this record will be played immediately for the enlightenment and amusement of the dear public." Now the audience braces itself for what is to follow. Imagine the amazement and consternation of everyone when the voices of President Gray, Professor Knapp, Professor Hertell, Dr. Purinton, Professor Baird, Professor Chase and Dr. Britan are heard speaking as they engage in a red-hot game of old-fashioned draw poker.

Perfectly scandalous! Yes, indeed, if true. However, in order that the reputations of our most honored faculty may not be sullied, a few words of explanation will certainly be a la mode, and here is the real truth of the matter. Someone overheard "Dusty" Blackington mimicing several Professors as his imagination told him they would sound if engaged in playing poker. Presto!!! Why not make a record of it? The idea was carried into execution a l'instant; a dictaphone was procured and Charlie Stevens commissioned to operate it; then of course Dusty was Johnny-on-the-spot to assist in its manufacture by imitating the voices of Prexy, Freddie, Purry, Goosie and Doc Britan. Our friend, Cecil Holmes, successfully produced the voices of Frenchie and Birdie. At frequent intervals, a laughing chorus composed of the principal actors assisted by Messrs. Spratt, Steady, and Stevens furnished ample volume of laughter. The last step in the procedure before this record could be released to the public was its censorship by "Bursar" W. Rowe.

The second performance of this production was before the Bates Round Table the same evening that Dr. Britan won national fame by his treatise on the mysteries of lovemaking. From then on it was played until completely worn out. We still think and talk about this record, however, though its material substance perished long ago, and now that the record itself is gone, we are recording on these pages the scenario just as it was produced in January, 1921. If you want a vocalized edition, go to "Dusty" and he will be more than glad to render it for you.

"Prexy": "Er—— Professor Knapp, have you brought your pasteboards with you?"

"Freddie": "Oh, yes, I always carry them with me; Donald gave me a new pack for Chwistmas."

"Prexy": "E——all right! Let's have a little game!!!!!"

"Freddie": "Shall we cut for deal, Pwesident Gway?"

"Goosie": " 'Frenchie,' give me a cigarette, will you?"

"Frenchie": "Yah, all 'ight, all I haf iss a couple of Zi-as."

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l, h-e-h—it rather looks as though I had to deal; don't know what Mrs. Britan would say, he-e-h—."

"Purry": "Ace was always high when I was at Colby."

"Frenchie": "Yah, yer not at Colby now."

"Goosie": "Freddie, give me a match, will you?"

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l—h-e-h—who opens? It takes jacks or better."

"Frenchie": "Yah, all 'ight, I'll open dis pot."

"Prexy": "Er—ante up!!! Everybody!!!"

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l—h-e-h—how many cards? What d'you say, Frenchie?"

"Frenchie": "I'll take a couple."

"Purry": "Give me two cards."

"Birdie": "Dr. Purinton must be holding an ace. Therefore I shall take three cards, however, er—I think I shall need more than three cards, er—therefore I shall take four cards. Yes, sir! You may give me four cards."

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l, Goosie, what do you say?"

"Goosie": "Shades of Orestes!!! I shall be compelled to pass."

Laughter

"Prexy": "Well—er—if I may be permitted to use the expression, I—er—will stand pat."

"Doc" B.: "H-e-h—who's betting?"

"Frenchie": "All 'ight, a game of cards iss al'ays a 'ittle more interesting with a little money on de table. I'll bet a couple of dollars. What do you say, Dr. Purinton?"

"Purry": "I will raise you three."

"Birdie": "I—er—believe I can raise you four—er—yes, sir! I will raise you four."

"Purry": "Well, I'll stay with you."

"Freddie": "Oh, yes, I'll stay."

"Prexy": "Well—er—I shall have to put in—er—shall I say—er—seven bones!!!!!!"

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l—h-e-h—guess I'll call yer."

"Frenchie": "Yah, all 'ight, I haf a pair of queens, can you beat dat, Dr. Purinton?"

"Purry": "Ha! Ha! Ha! Frenchie, I have a flush."

"Goosie": "Judas Priest!!!! What do you think you've got there?" Did they make a flush out of three spades and two clubs when you were at Colby?"

"Prexy": "Er—they didn't do it that way at the University of Chicago, eyther!!!!!"

Laughter

"Freddie": "Don't you s-see-e, Dr. Pewrinton, that in order to have a fwlush, your cards must be all of the same s-suit?"

"Purry": "Oh, yaas, I see, but I thought if they were all of one color they would count just the same."

LAUGHTER

"Birdie": "I have three queens, yes, sir! I have three queens."

"Freddie": "It seems to me-e that you are twaveling pwetty fast, Birdie, with fwee queens."

"Prexy": "Er—how do you get that way?????? Frenchie already has three queens, er—how many are there in the pack, anyhow????"

"Birdie": "That's all right, President Gray, one of my queens is a king."

"Freddie": "I guess I am out of it; all I have is jacks and deuces."

"Prexy": "Er—my hand reminds me of chapel: a full house."

"Goosie": "Is that your idea of humor, 'C. D.'?"

"Doc" B.: "W-e-l-l, h-e-h—guess the pot's mine, straight flush, king high. H-e-h, dealer's s'posed to have the best hand anyhow—h-e-h—."

Co-Education Comes Into Its Own

As someone has well and wisely said, "The co-educational game at Bates is what a man makes it." We study because we believe that one gets only as much out of his courses as he puts into them. We wonder if the same does not apply to 'Varsity Co-education. Almost without exception those who have been highly successful and have become "assistants" in the course are those who sacrificed everything to their work. No study was ever important enough to keep them away from a "pressing" engagement, and it has been unauthoritatively reported that an occasional worker has foregone all the joys of a visit to a College Commons in the pursuit of his ambition. Yet, when we pause to think of the glory that the magnificent game brings to our class and to our college, can we not say that these sacrifices are justified? Perhaps it was some of these diligent workers that inspired Dr. Britan to write his famous essay on "The Whys and Wherefores of Loving," causing Miss Early of the Boston American to travel down to Bates, bringing fame and honor to the college and placing our 'Varsity Co-educational Team in a position that is very unique among the other college of the country.

And, as usual, 1921 plays a prominent position on that team. For four years the men of '21 have worked diligently to uphold one of Bates' most cherished traditions. In their Freshman year they were told that Bates was among the first colleges in the country to admit women students, and immediately clearly saw that it was their duty to make Bates the last college to let them go again. Too much credit cannot be given to Prof. Knapp, Dr. Hartshorn, and Dr. Britan for keeping the little spark of romance alive and interest from lagging by their timely words of advice and gentle suggestions. A statistical investigation of the class shows a record to be proud of. While the character of this book does not admit the publication of the names of some of our more prominent players an idea of the interest shown in the sport can be gathered by a perusal of the following data carefully gathered and compiled by Mr. Rowe for the use of the Publicity Committee:

DATA GATHERED FROM FOUR YEARS OF OBSERVATION OF THE CLASS OF 1921

Those who co-educate	110
Those who co-educate under favorable circumstances	50
Those who co-educate under unfavorable circumstances	2
Those who co-educate under any sort of circumstances	50
Those who do not co-educate on account of a lack of sparring partners	8
Total	220
Those counted twice	110
Grand total	110

Thus it will be readily seen wherein 1921 has established a precedent to be idealized and, in so far as possible, approached by all future classes and if, during its four year sojourn at Bates, it has succeeded in establishing a lasting monument to its work it can only pass modestly on, letting others observe its footprints in the sands of time.

Jazz Echoes

Time: 7.30 P.M. The night of a Bates dance.
Place: Third floor corridor of Rand.
Characters: Phil, Min, Eddie, Dece, Barb, Laura, Saff.

Eddie's voice rising out of the existing hubbub: "Hey, Dece, come hook me up."

Dece (obligingly) : "Sure."

Min (with looking glass in hand) : Dece, have I got too much powder on my nose?"

Dece (critically) : "W-e-e-l-l, er, I s'pose some of it will rub off."

42-2 rings and Barb dances down stairs: "That's my Thomas."

15-2 and 13-2 ring immediately and Phil starts down, crying: "For the Lord's sake, Saff, hurry up."

Saff follows at once with a jovial: "Aw, gwan, I'll get there before you do yet."

Min and Eddie in chorus: "We've been ready for ten minutes and those darn boys haven't come yet."

Laura: "There go your bells, now." (Pacing corridor, disgustedly.) "I wish Bill would speed up."

Curtain

Time: 12.30 A.M., after the dance.
Place: Room 15, Rand Hall.
Characters: Min, Eddie, Crete, Phil, Saff, Laura, Barb.

Saff (explosively) : "Gee! Didn't we have a swell time!"

Min (with Phil, Eddie, Laura and Barb echoing) : "Wasn't it p-e-a-chy?"

Barb (anxiously) : "Did I look taller than Tom with my high heels?"

Phil (with a disgusted sigh) : "Oh, gosh, kids, didn't you hate to leave at 11:30?"

Min (excitedly) : "Well, I think we ought to be allowed to—"

Laura (emphatically) : "Well, by heck! so do I.

The door opens noiselessly and Crete pokes her head in: "Say, kids, do you know you are making an awful noise?" (Withdraws head but reopens door to ask) : "D'you have a good time?"

The whole bunch: "SWELL!!"

Saff (with a wink at the rest) : "Say, did you see Eddie and John dancing cheek to cheek?"

Eddie (indignantly) : "Oh, you go chase yourself! My nose only comes to his necktie."

Phil (resignedly) : "I s'pose we've all got to go to church tomorrow morning."

Barb (dejectedly) : "Well, we've got to go if we want to get to the next dance."

Eddie (rising reluctantly) : "All right, Skinny; pike along. Good night, old shirts."

After Cutting Monie's English

Time: 1.45 P.M.
Scene: Room 24.
Characters:
Emma Connolly
Marian Bates
Irma Haskell
Marguerite Hill
Clarice Weymouth
Lois Chandler
Dot Miller

Marian (sauntering in leisurely) : "Emma, are you ready? Where's Marguerite and Irma?"

Emma (incensed) : "Don't speak to me. I can't find a darned thing. How can anybody go anywhere? My suit skirt's gone and somebody's got my hair-pins."

(Enter Marguerite frantically) : "I'd jolly well like to know where my shoes are. I can't go without any."

Marian (trying to help out) : "I thought I saw them in Fisher's room." (Goes out.)

Marguerite: "I haven't any gloves, either. They ought to be in my top drawer, but they aren't."

Emma: "Oh, don't fuss. I'll borrow Clarice's." (Raising voice) "Clareece? Have you got some gloves? Can I take them? All right." (Gloves are promptly secured.)

(Re-enter Marian with shoes. Then comes Irma, wasting time and intuning—) "Leena vas de queen of Palesteena"—finishes coiffure with fancy comb and surveys herself in the mirror well pleased.)

Irma and Emma: "—played her concertin—a."

Marguerite: "Hurry up, we're late now."

Emma: "Of course you are. You always are."

(Enter Dot) : "Emma, have you found my middy yet? I have to have my picture taken at two. Well, what are you going to do about it?"

Em (registering resignation in the mirror) : "There, I borrowed that for Marg, haven't you got it yet?"

Marguerite: "I didn't wear it at all. It ought to be here." (Both are in despair, knowing full well it cannot be found.) "We'll have to look."

Em: "Here, take this one."

(Enter Lois) : "You know that voile dress of mine. Well, it had a black velvet girdle on it—thought maybe you forgot it."

(Enter Stiles) : "Oh, Em, have you got my tie?"

(Climax arrives and passes. Peace is restored for time being. Eventually all start down the corridor.)

Em (walking stylishly) : "I'm so disgusted. I never'll borrow another thing as long as I live."

Eb: "I'll say. Some baby. Wonder where he gets his pull there."

Harold (sitting up in bed and reaching for unmentionables): "For the love of Mike! Are you guys going to talk all night? Who went to breakfast?"

Dizzy: "Nobody. I'm going down to the Qual. They say she thinks he's a regular little tin god on wheels."

Eb: "There you go again! It's a cinch she'd never have gone with him if she could see me now."

Hal: "Come on, Heavy, get up and shut the window. I've got a 9:40 and I want to get up."

Harold: "Who's got 'em? Shoot the matches, Dizzy. Pass me my shoes—throw over that shirt—who in —— put that soap on my collar? 'S too —— bad a feller can't leave anything around but somebody's go to spoil it or steal it or—" etc.

Enter Chewing-Gum R. U. E.

C. G.: "Can I leave my coat here a minute? I'll—"

Eb: "Yes, that's what they all say. Why don't you go over and tell Harry you want to room here? We'll take your money."

C. G.: "Oh, you go shimmy up a rope. I belong to the Masons."

Exit all.

Act II. Scene 1.

Scene 1. Any Monday, Tuesday, Thursday or Friday from 1-1:30, just before Monie's class.

Characters: Same as before with a few additions.

Dizzy has just returned from down town and is reading Sat. Eve. Post preparatory to writing a theme in Economics.

(Enter Hal and Harold, talking earnestly.)

Hal: "You look in the Sun. Thorne's Corner tonight. I'll take Auburn Heights if you'll get that little vamp you were jazzing around with the other night."

Harold: "Can't. Got to play for the Y. P. C. U. They had a masquerade last time and they wore everything. Gee, I nearly went wild."

(Enter Eb, smoking a cigar.)

Eb: Ya, it takes a woman to get you wild. You can't even go over to Rand without getting all fussed up. I should think you'd cut it out. Be reasonable, like me. T'ell with them all, I say."

Harold: "Good reason. You don't get the chance."

Intermission while they light up.

Enter C. G., Phil, Willie.

Dizzy: "Well, we're all here."

Phil: "Who's been kidding my girl?"

Hal: "Oh, you can't kid her, she's wise."

C. G.: "Yes, I met her last night and she told me—"

Phil: "She did not!"

Eb: "Give the man a chance to tell, can't you? This is a free country. Give every man a chance, I say—same as I do.'"

Enter Hunker.

Hunker: "Say, boys, did you hear that one about the—"

Hal: "Get out of here with that stuff—"

Eb: "Aw, shut up. This is my room. Go ahead, Jim."

Hunker: "Naw, there's Willie over there and I don't want to wreck his noble young life."

Harold: "You can't shock Bill. He was over to Rand last night."

Dizzy: "Guess I'll have another smoke. Cigarettes, Harry; matches, Eb; ash-tray, Phil; lemme scratch a match on your foot, Bill."

Hunker: "You couldn't smoke if you wasn't born with a sucker lip. You make me think of the story of the man who—"

The Prof.-Kidder's Life is a Helluvaness!

SNAPPY SYNOPSIS WITH DYNAMIC CLIMAX

I fall out 30 seconds before breakfast.

At table, I converse brightly by means of old puns and stale jokes in the hope that my fellows may believe that I have been up an hour cramming for our Ed. exam.

The 15 minutes before the bell I spend searching in vain for my Ed. notes taken on two consecutive days last February.

I walk to class with some of the studious ones and casually extract points here and there.

I march into Ed. room nonchalantly and smile confidently at my instructor. (Lucky I do before I see the questions!)

I pucker my brows thoughtfully at the corner and scribble on.

I am obliged to cut chapel because someone has just told me that we have a French exam on 18th century literature next hour. (Note: It didn't do any good; everybody had taken his notebook with him.)

I enter the French room calm and unafraid. I appropriate my neighbor's notebook on the pretext of looking up the style of Moliére, and in 1-minute-45-seconds review three months' notes.

Then I have a Spanish class, where I read at sight; but nobody knows it because I am so good at it.

At 11 o'clock, I have an hour in which I should (1) run over to Lab. (2) correct themes, (3) write an oration, (4) work on a thesis, (5) trot about and pay some bills. I can't decide which, so I hail an old crony with a tennis racquet and play two bum sets before dinner.

At Monie's English, I sit in the front seat and am unprepared. I am the goat as usual and at 2 o'clock I decide I'll take in the movies. I go out.

Only I am reminded that I have Latin Comp. next hour, and prepare for an hour's rest.

But unfortunately we are given out exam. sheets, and I have done only two lessons this year. Of course I take it.

In desperation I go to the Qual.

I am followed angrily by the Business Manager of the MIRROR. I had promised to get material in a week ago and the whole thing is being held up.

When I return, there is a telephone call. I am way behind in correcting my themes; they must be in tomorrow.

Someone hands me a note from Prexy in which it is brought to my attention that I have overcut French several times.

I am informed that the S. G. Board would like to meet me that evening. Evidently I have put my foot in it again.

Still later by a phone call, I am informed that unless I get my oration and incompletes passed in very, very soon, I shall not pass on.

I drag myself up the stairs to my room and affix to my door the sign, "As you respect the dead, Pass Without Entering."

With a sweep of one arm I clear the table and gather my work unto me.
